Workers strike At Gar Wood

Approximately 1,000 production workers remained off their jobs today at the two Gar Wood Industries, Inc. plants here in a wildcat strike.

The walkout reportedly started over a grievance concerning the scheduling of overtime.

United Auto Workers' labor relations official John H. Burton, who services the Gar Wood plants here for the UAW, this morning said that the strike is unauthorized. In accordance with its contract, he said, the international union cannot intervene until employees return to work.

UAW Local 769 is the production workers' union at both local plants — the Automotive Division at 2085 E. Michigan Ave. and the Metal Craft Division at 800 Lowell St.

Yesterday's afternoon shift left their jobs, initiating the wildcat strike.

Burton explained that Gar Wood here has had a number of grievances recently, and that UAW and management officials "have been meeting on these issues over four weeks but have not been able to totally resolve them."

The UAW executive, also mayor of Ypsilanti said he spent about four hours at the plants last night, re-emphasizing the union's position.

"I have told them that it is unauthorized and that they should go back to work and that there will be no meeting until they do," Burton explained.

Management officials, reportedly in conferences this morning, did not comment on the situation.

Striking workers spent the night outside the plants in their cars and today were grouped around the entranceways, parading in front of the buildings.

The State Police and the Sheriff's Department had representatives at the scene, but there had been no violence or threats as of noon.

Sears plans still forming

Hudson's remain mum about Ann Arbor store

ANN ARBOR — Rumors that the newly formed Dayton Corporation, which recently added J. L. Hudson Co. of Detroit, will locate a major department store here remained unconfirmed today while a construction schedule for a new Sears, Roebuck & Co. reportedly is still in the formative stages.

A Hudson's spokesman observed that his company "has always liked the Ann Arbor area," but he would not elaborate on any plans for the development of a store although it has been rumored that the firm has purchased 80 acres of property just north of I-94.

Meanwhile, Sears manager at its existing downtown Ann Arbor store, C. W. Jones, explained that his company had been delayed in awaiting the outcome of a proposed annexation, which was approved in a city election earlier this week. The proposed new Sears location is at an area commonly identified as the McMullen property — the northwest corner of I-94 and State Rd. "We've been standing still for four to five months awaiting the annexation," Jones related.

The Sears store, to be in a shopping center at the site is planned to include 150,000 square feet of floor space on one level. It is also planned to have an auto service center at the site, which is to be developed in an enclosed mall concept.

Developers sought annexation to Ann Arbor since Pittsfield Township was unable to provide them with necessary utility services and desired police and fire coverage.

McMullen said today that the next immediate step in the shopping center development will be securing the proper commercial zoning from Ann Arbor for the 171-acre tract.

According to developer George V. Airey, Hudson's has approached him about a proposed property transaction and matters presently are in "tentative agreement" stages.

Michael Kelly, director of the Hudson-Weber Realty — a Dayton subsidiary — explained today that his company is seeking property in this area, and has considered the proposed development on the McMullen property. However, the parcel rumored in consideration between Airey and Dayton is in the area of the Saline-Ann Arbor Rd.-Water Rd.-Main St. area just north of the expressway.

Tornado hits Mid-state area

The Press offers Biography of Ike

"Eisenhower: A Gauge of Greatness", the only complete biography of the former president ever written, has been made available to Ypsilanti area residents through The Press and the Associated Press.

The book was written by Relman Morin, winner of two Pulitzer Prizes and a special correspondent for the Associated Press.

Having known the general for a quarter of a century, reported his presidential campaigns, and interviewed him on numerous occasions, Morin had many personal experiences that were invaluable to him in writing the memorable volume.

Morin also had access to Eisenhower's personal letter files during the year he spent writing and researching the general's life.

The title comes from Eisenhower's own yardstick for greatness. He thought that Churchill, Washington, Lincoln and Lee stood tall beside it. In his book, Morin applies the same gauge to Eisenhower.

In addition to the news and feature stories that Morin has written, he has published a biography of Churchill, an account of the assassination of President Kennedy and two books dealing with Japan and World War II.

Morin's reporting of the Korean conflict for the AP earned him a Pulitzer prize in 1951. He won another one seven years later for his eyewitness reporting of the rioting over school integration in Little Rock, Ark.

To get a copy of the book, send a $3 check made out to the Associated Press to: "Gauge of Greatness," The Ypsilanti Press, Box 66, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. 12061.

Two warrants issued In church shootout

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Police Commissioner Johannes Spreen announced today that two warrants have been issued in what he described a major breakthrough in the investigation of the slaying of a police officer in a church shootout last month.

Spreen said the two fugitives were Rafael Viera, 20, a Puerto Rican from New York City, wanted on a first degree murder charge, and Alfred Hibbitt, 38, a Negro from Lexington, Ky., who is accused of assault with intent to commit murder.

Federal warrants charging flight across state lines to avoid prosecution also have been issued, Spreen said.

Hibbitt was among the eight persons whom police wanted held for further questioning the day following the shooting. All were ordered released, however, by Recorder's Judge George W. Crockett Jr.

Crockett, however did set a $1,000 personal bond on Hibbitt. The others were freed without bond.

Viera was described as 5-foot-10, weighing 120 pounds. Hibbitt is 6-1, and weighs 190 pounds.

Chamber Endorses Bonding

C of C plans Big campaign

The Ypsilanti Area Chamber of Commerce today announced its endorsement of the Ypsilanti School District's $11.9 million bonding proposal for a new high school.

The chamber has directed its educational committee to campaign strongly on the issue in advance of the May 19 election.

Chamber Manager Ronald Hutson said the board of directors met with Superintendent Ray W. Barber and Board of Education President Richard K. Roberts early this week to discuss the proposal, and then decided to endorse the program and to sponsor a major campaign promoting passage of the request.

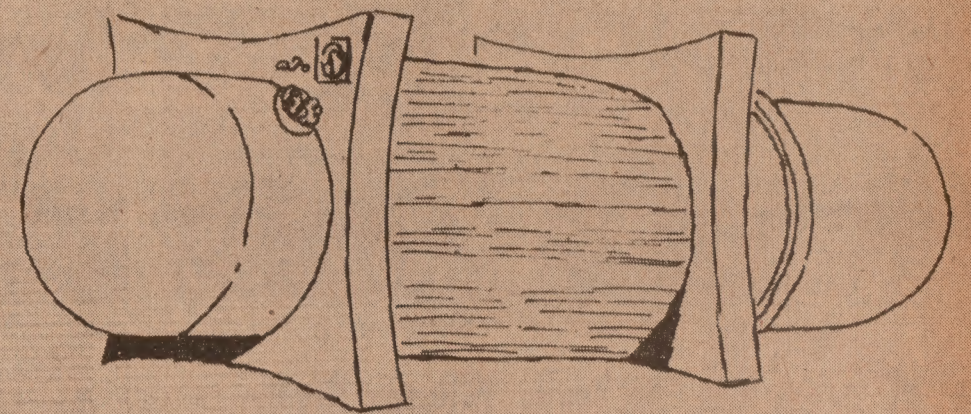

Hutson explained that the Chamber's educational committee had met with Barber last week and had recommended that the board act in endorsing the proposal's passage.

"The board decided this week to assume a positive public position in support of the new high school bond issue," he stated, "and in doing so has labeled it one of the most important issues facing this community."

He emphasized that the Chamber recognizes the need for such a facility and considers the proposed new high school as "the most logical solution."

"The Chamber will be taking more than just a passive role here," Hutson added. "The people who have to be turned out are the people who have children in the schools. They're not going to be able to sit back and let someone else do it."

"In a community where education has played such an important role, it's just not feasible for us to deny this request at this time," he concluded.

Pictured is a storage capsule where, for $13,000-$15,000 in perpetual care costs, the Cryonics Society of Michigan will freeze a dead person until medical science discovers the means of rejuvenating human life.

'Never say die,' advises State Cryonics Society

By NANCY ABNER
Of The Press Staff

ANN ARBOR — "Don't give up... never say die."

These words of advice, offered in a cryonics Society of Michigan brochure, sum up the group's outlook on life — namely, that it doesn't have to terminate with death.

Part of a nationwide movement, the Michigan Cryonics Society (CSM) maintains that if a person is frozen immediately after death, decades — even centuries — later when medical science has greatly progressed, the "deceased" can be thawed, rejuvenated and cured of his fatal ailment.

Watch the sunset in 4000 A.D. — this is the future awaiting a cryonics patient when he leaves his storage capsule, as visualized by CSM President Robert C. W. Ettinger.

For about $5,000 initially and a $300 annual maintenance charge, a dead person can be placed in a capsule, frozen by liquid nitrogen, and stored in a refrigerated storage unit located — aptly enough — in Phoenix, Ariz.

Cryonics enthusiasts foresee the day when cemeteries are replaced by freezers. Started about 2 years ago, CSM is one of 11 cryonics societies in the U.S. and France — all less than five years old.

Tomorrow and Saturday the youthful movement will hold its second annual national conference in Ann Arbor.

To be held in the Michigan Union, the 2-day conference will feature lectures and panel discussions covering all aspects of cryonics.

Some topics will be scientific and highly technical: "New Developments in the Psychology of Aging," "The Reversal of Aging," and "Micro-Respiration in the Cerebral Cortex after Perfusion, Freezing and Thawing." Other points of discussion will be the religious and ethical questions which cryonics raises.

An honest Motorist

There are some honest people in the world.

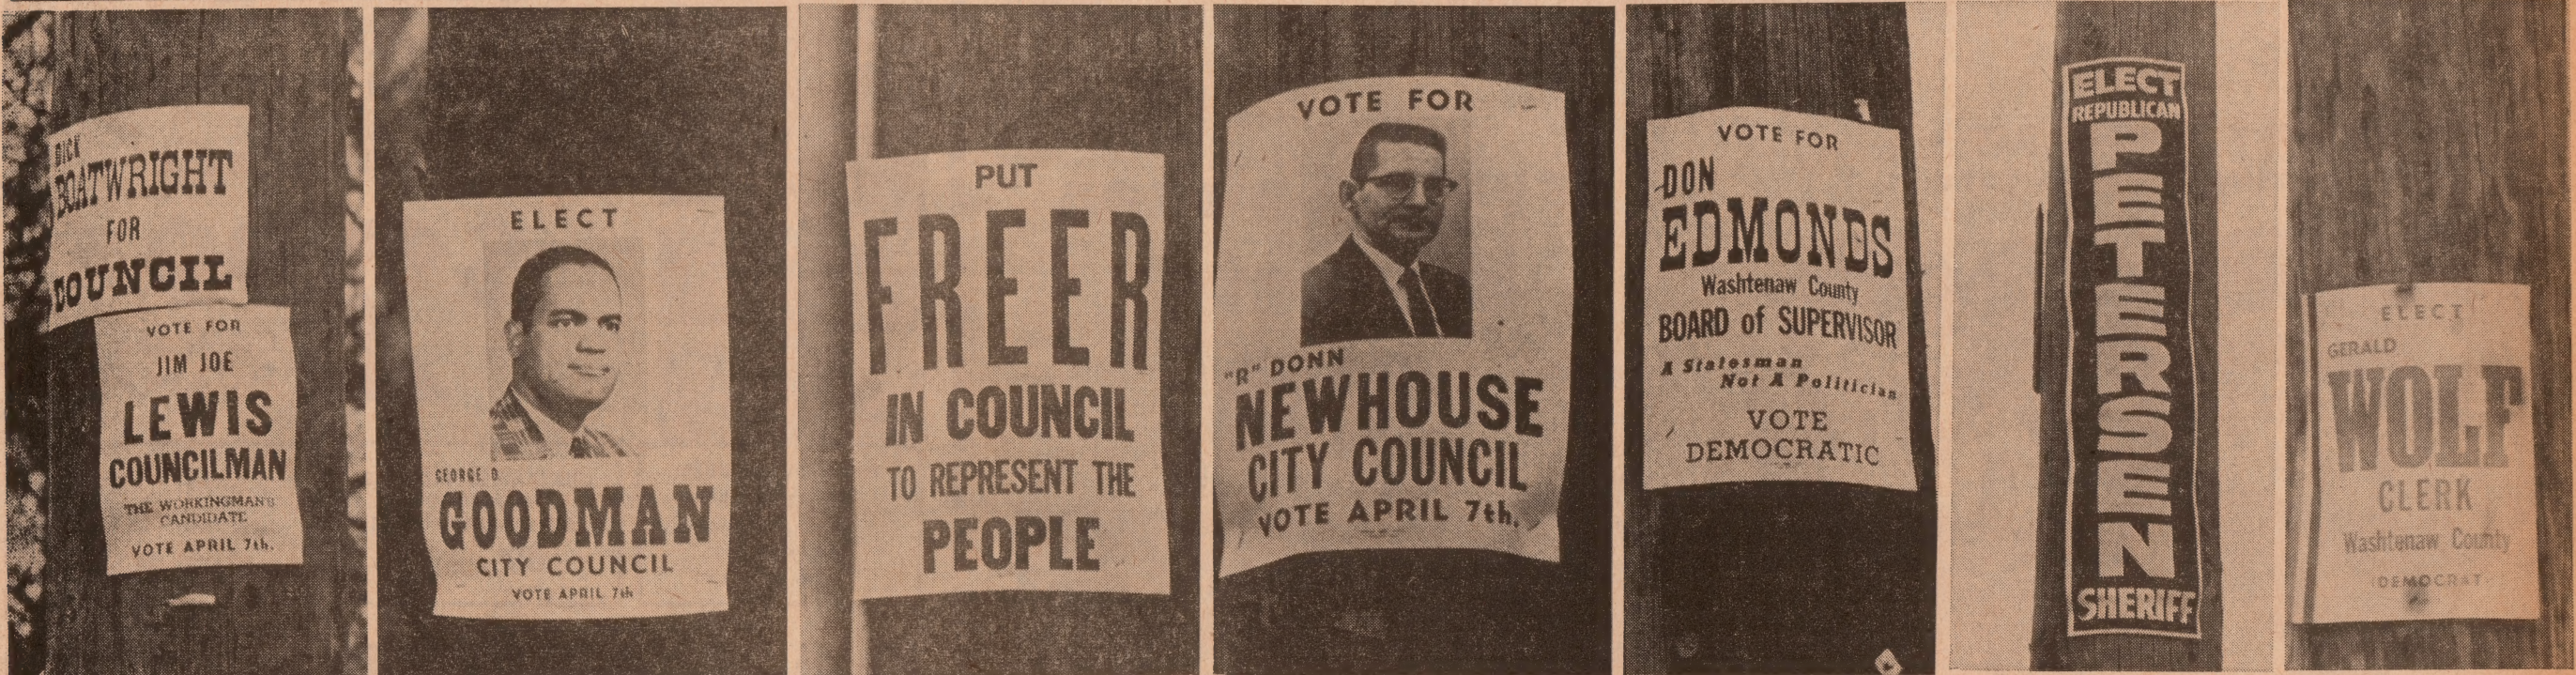

Jacob J. Walters of Grand Rapids was driving along I-94 near Haggerty Rd. yesterday when he spotted a small metal box lying along the shoulder of the highway. Mr. Walters stopped and investigated. He found the box open with several pieces of change lying in the dirt beside the road.

He scooped up the box and money and turned them in to the Ypsilanti State Police post. The box contained $44.05.

Troopers traced the box to its owner, Irene Whitmore of Plymouth, and returned it. It was not determined how the box came to be lying on the side of the road.

Pre-election posters remain in their illegal public locations

Campaign posters, some dating back to pre-election periods many months ago, still were frequent on utility poles throughout much of Ypsilanti today. Many of the candidates from Monday's city election have acted to remove their posters and others, but many still remain with the individuals responsible for the cost of their removal if done by city crews. City Clerk Elizabeth E. Fenker reminded the ex-candidates this morning that midnight yesterday was the deadline, in accordance with the city law, for removing the posters. But then again, former political candidates for supervisor, sheriff and county clerk are long overdue in complying.

Nixon aide says ABM mistake

Longtime defense critic calls system incredible

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, a key scientific adviser to Senate opponents of the Safeguard defense program, says the Nixon administration's decision to build the antiballistic missile system is an incredible mistake.

"Security just can't be achieved that way," physicist Lapp said in an interview amplifying on his challenge to the proposed Safeguard ABM system. "It seems to me that this whole business is incredible. What we're doing is building up forces that will provoke the Russians into building up unlimited forces."

Lapp, 51, is a long-time critic of the Defense Department and the Atomic Energy Commission who has had a way of turning out to be right.

His latest effort strikes at the roots of the administration's reasoning for deploying the controversial Safeguard—that American nuclear missiles must be protected from a Russian nuclear "first strike."

The position was laid out by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, who told Congress the Soviet Union is building toward a first-strike capability. He based the prediction on reports they are planning to deploy a huge new missile known as the SS9, capable of carrying one massive warhead or, later, three smaller ones.

Laird said this might give the Soviets the capability of destroying the United States before Washington could order retaliation.

In a report prepared voluntarily for senators opposing the Safeguard, Lapp said the SS9 is not intended to give a first-strike capability because even a large-scale attack would not guarantee the Soviets against retaliation.

By 1976, he said, the SS9 probably would be able to deliver 1,000 five-megaton warheads—but 4,000 would be needed to neutralize the American missile force.

To compound his mathematical challenge, he says the Pentagon is guilty of incredible error in "assuming that the Russians would assume that no

United States missiles would be fired immediately after it was learned a nuclear attack was under way."

This challenge to the military is the latest in a series that began 20 years ago, when he was teaching nuclear physics at George Washington University.

Then Lapp was making speeches "alerting the American people to the danger of strategic weapons and exposing the danger of such weapons."

But, he said, "I was having difficulty getting my speeches cleared by the Pentagon, so I decided to sever all government ties and go it on my own."

So he hasn't drawn a government or university paycheck for almost 20 years—but hasn't had access to secret material, either.

He makes his living mostly writing books—12 so far—and magazine articles, plus lecturing. His projects keep typewriters going in two offices, one of them at his home in Alexandria, Va.

His first book, "Must We Hide?" was written after seeing the nuclear weapons tests at Bikini atoll in 1946 "and getting my first feel for the potential dangers of fallout radiation."

He was the first scientist to warn publicly, in 1954, of the potential radioactive fallout of the world of the hydrogen bomb—long before the Atomic Energy Commission admitted the dan-

Power company To file charges

JACKSON (AP) — Consumers Power Co. says it plans to file an unfair labor practice charge against the striking Utility Workers Union for picketing outside the Palisades nuclear plant near Kalamazoo.

Construction work at the plant was halted Wednesday when some 550 skilled tradesmen reed up outside Livonia District Court before the scheduled court appearance of five men who had been arrested Tuesday following an argument at a Consumers service center.

Scattered reports of picket line incidents marked the second day of the strike, as Consumers won a temporary restraining order against mass pickets at the firm's Karn-Weadock generating plant near Essexville.

The order was signed by Bay County Circuit Judge Leon R. Dardas and prohibits the UAW from interfering with access to any plant or facility of the company in the county.

NLRB ruling accepted By copper strikers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten AFL-CIO United Steelworkers Union. Trial Examiner David Karasick said in his Feb. 10 findings the unions' demands for common contract expiration dates, a companywide economic settlement, and that no strikers return to work until settlements were obtained at all Kennecott properties, were unfair labor practices because previous bargaining with the firm had been conducted individually at its separate plants and mines.

EMU specialist Degrees OK'd

Eastern Michigan University has received approval from the State Board of Education for the granting of specialist degrees in elementary education and school psychology.

The Board noted that approval of these degrees implied no commitment for allowing future doctoral programs in these areas.

The proposal for the granting of these two degrees at EMU was submitted to the State Board of Education by the EMU Board of Regents, following the recommendation of the administration.

A spokesman for EMU said that the addition of these programs will not require additional space or staff because the courses are already being offered.

A specialist degree is about half-way between a master's degree and a doctor's. Approximately 30 credits beyond a master's degree are needed to obtain the degree.

Former Assessor's Wife dies

Mrs. Evelyn H. Marsh, the wife of the late City Assessor-Treasurer Robert H. Marsh, died suddenly early yesterday morning at the home of her son, Donald, in Wilmette, Ill.

An Ypsilanti resident for over 20 years, Mrs. Marsh was 65 and lived at 1503 W. Cross St.

She came here with her husband in 1948 from Lansing, where her husband left his job as a state tax commissioner to become the city's assessor.

Marsh held this post until his fatal heart attack in February, 1967. A member of the County Board of Supervisors, Marsh also served on the local fire and police board for pensions and retirement.

A native of Muskegon, Mich., Mrs. Marsh is survived by two sons — U.S. Army Lt. Col. Jack R. Marsh, currently stationed in Japan, and Donald Marsh of Wilmette, Ill.; a daughter — Mrs. Robert (Jean) Carr of North Canton, O.; six grandchildren; a brother — Roy Hansen of Arcadia, Calif., and a sister — Miss Beatrice Hanson of Muskegon.

Mrs. Marsh was a member of the First Congregational Church of Ypsilanti, the Ladies Literary Club, and the Women's City Club of Ann Arbor.

Funeral services will be held at Stevens and Bush Funeral Home 3:30 p.m. Saturday. The body will be cremated at Woodmere Crematorium in Detroit.

The family has asked that memorial contributions be made to the First Congregational Church building fund. Envelopes for donations will be available at the funeral home, where friends may call beginning tomorrow evening.

Press cited By police For service

A small article carried in The Press last week requesting the public's aid in a police investigation was a success.

Ann Arbor Police had requested a witness to come forward and provide them with additional information. The witness earlier had called the police concerning an incident on Geddes Rd. but more details were needed. Police said the incident had nothing to do with the recent murders in the area.

Today it was learned that the witness saw the appeal in The Press and contacted the detective division of the Ann Arbor police. Although further details of the crime have not been released, it was reported that information given police by the witness has greatly aided in their investigation.

And the nitty-gritty problems of planning a "life after death" will be examined: A California insurance agent will speak on "Cryonics and the Life Insurance Business"; cryonics and "The Changing Attitude of the Funeral Industry" will be the subject of a Long Island funeral director's talk.

Conference registration will be at 9 a.m. tomorrow at the Michigan Union — the public is invited to attend. Proceeds from conference registration will furnish a cash award to be presented by the cryonics societies.

Wildcat workers return To Sterling plant jobs

DETROIT (AP) — A wildcat walkout against a key Chrysler stamping plant ended today when members of a striking United Auto Workers Union local removed pickets from plant gates and workers returned to their jobs.

The return to work by 1,425 of the 1,700 workers scheduled on today's morning shift was agreed to Wednesday in a fiery union meeting called to persuade members to end the walkout. After 2½ hours of pleading by UAW local and national officials, a majority of some 3,000 Local 1264 members attending an emergency meeting raised their arms to indicate they would return to work starting with today's day shift at Chrysler's suburban Sterling plant.

Scattered boos followed the decision and several dissident members said they wouldn't return to the plant until safety and discharge grievances were settled.

By Wednesday night, the walkout, which cut off supplies of body panels for Chrysler cars, had idled nearly 31,000 workers across the country.

Douglas Fraser, UAW Chrysler department director, told the turbulent meeting that he would lead union officials into negotiations with Chrysler immediately on a safety issue that sparked the walkout and on the firm's subsequent discharge of 69 employees. Fraser was one of two UAW national officers named Monday as administrators of the local by the parent union.

Local 1264 members, who walked out April 2, demanded to take a strike vote on their grievances if they returned to work.

Fraser told them they could hold a strike vote in the 4,000-member local as soon as next Monday and, if the local authorizes a strike, "I guarantee you" the international union would sanction a walkout.

Fraser joined Local 1264 President James Sexton and other union officers in telling the workers Chrysler refused to negotiate the safety and discharge issues until the plant returned to operations.

A hi-lo truck operator named Chuck took the podium and told his coworkers that he was one of the 69 employees discharged for picketing the firm:

"I'm one of them that got fired," he said. "The only way we're gonna get back to work is if you go back. We proved our point."

"Do you want to save the 69 people?" Fraser asked. "Or do you want to stay out and have more casualties?"

One unidentified worker took the microphone midway in the meeting and told the crowd that "One rotten apple spoils the barrel."

"I don't know who was the first rotten apple," he said, pointing toward Sexton, Fraser and other union officers, "but it sure is a rotten barrel." A chorus of cheers surged from the audience.

"We've heard so many promises . . .," the dissident shouted. He said grievances had been piling up in the Sterling plant for four or more years.

Later, Sexton and Fraser said there were "a lot" of outstanding grievances at the plant but they didn't know how many.

Law, order is topic Of 'Witnesses' meet

"Law and order — when and how" will be the prime topic at a circuit assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses tomorrow through Sunday at West Junior High School.

According to Mrs. Leonard Stallard of 2271 Packard Rd., doing public relations for the assembly, some 1,400 representatives from Ypsilanti, Plymouth, Ann Arbor and Tecumseh will be present. Mrs. Stallard, wife of an ordained Jehovah Witness minister, expressed her concern over the use of drugs in the schools.

She said she met her husband while both were students at the Gilead Bible College in South Lansing, N. Y.

Two Ypsilanti congregations, under the direction of Walter Fisher and Phillip Booth, presiding ministers, will be hosts to delegates from 14 other congregations in Southeastern Michigan.

Sessions will begin at 6:45 p.m. Friday and will include a variety of methods of Bible instruction.

The main speaker will be Marvin L. Holien of Brooklyn who will talk at 3 p.m. Sunday. A baptismal service will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Workers said the overt cause of the walkout was an assignment to clean up metal scrap from a conveyor belt pit. The workers refused the assignment and their local officers backed them up.

Frank Kaleto, 26, of Hazel Park, a hi-lo operator assigned to some of the scrap cleanup, said, "People got cut constantly. It was razor sharp and covered with oil."

"The way people had to pick the steel up, they had to get in the pit and stand on the steel. It was just like standing on ice," he said.

Chrysler spokesmen have denied any safety hazard, saying the workers were furnished shovels and gloves for the task. Pickets at the Sterling plant Wednesday were joined by more than 70 youths who said they were members of the militant Students for a Democratic Society.

Two young women, identifying themselves as University of Michigan freshmen coeds, told a newsman they were joining the pickets "to help these workers gain control over their institution, like we're trying to gain control over our universities."

Fraser said the student action was "irresponsible and borders on ignorance. Let the UAW settle its own problems."

GM to continue Making Corvairs

duction of Corvairs sank to 95 cars last week, a spokesman for General Motors Corp. said today that the company has no intention of phasing out the rear-engine auto.

The Corvair has been the target of Ralph S. Nader, self-appointed auto critic, and a number of law suits on its safety.

The car is assembled at GM's Willow Run plant.

The GM spokesman said production is tied to the demand.

In the week ending March 29, 118 cars were produced. A total of 545 Corvairs were assembled in the month of March, thus far in 1969, there have been 1,641 produced as compared to 4,288 during the same period in 1968.

The GM spokesman said GM's new American built small car — which will compete with the Volkswagen and other foreign makes — will be assembled at Lordstown, Ohio. At present, the car bears the designation of XP-887 and has not received an official name. Ford Motor Co. also is coming out with a small car called the Maverick.

Production of all cars has decreased. Chrysler went from 32,193 in the week ending March 29 to 23,323; Ford dropped from 42,676 to 25,763; GM from 101,856 to 77,990; and American Motors from 5,668 to 5,042.

Total production of passenger cars dropped from 182,533 to 142,225 and with the inclusion of trucks and buses production dropped from 228,707 to 175,068.

The Corvair, lowest selling member of the Chevrolet family, is assembled solely at the GM Willow Run plant. Most of the autos put together there are Novas, of which 4,329 were produced last week.

During its peak years in 1961 and 1962, production of the GM compact was about 300,000 cars a year.

The decrease may reflect the Easter holidays and the fact that income taxpayers are feeling the impact of the 10 per cent surcharge.

Nixon outlines firm policy Of public information flow

President Nixon, in outlining his administration's attitude toward the public's right to know what its government is doing, is to be congratulated on the tight control he is putting into effect concerning official actions of the executive branch which anyone might feel should be withheld from Congress and the public.

The President has announced a policy of complying "to the fullest extent possible" with congressional requests.

The Office of Legal Counsel in the Department of Justice will review any request to withhold information. If that office and the attorney general agree the data should be withheld, the request must go to the President for his approval or rejection. Material may be withheld only at the direction of the President.

This arrangement provides for no buck passing. If any information is denied Congress, it will be the President who assumes full responsibility. This is a vastly better procedure than some which have been followed in the past which permitted even lower echelon bureaucrats to decide what was and was not public business.

5-4 decisions block justice

Once again an abrasive 5-4 split on the U.S. Supreme Court has thrown another impediment in the way of state court criminal prosecutions.

The high court, in an opinion by Justice Fortas, ruled that lineup identifications of an accused robber in California should not have been used against him at his trial. The majority found the lineups were so arranged that the accused stood out as the likely offender.

As in many of these 5-4 decisions, the dissent makes more sense than the majority opinion. Justice Black asserted the court has no constitutional authority to require the exclusion of all evidence that it thinks was improperly obtained or regards as unreliable.

He added that the court is creating so many new constitutional safeguards that it may find itself swamped with appeals from convicts, who think they've found the right loophole.

Justice Black thought the court could avoid this unhappy prospect by relying more on the judgment of state courts that so-called "tainted" evidence did not affect the outcome of a trial.

Rep. Gross urges collection Of 'Resurrection City' debt

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — The Southern Christian Leadership Conference faces a forceful crackdown on its protracted stalling in paying a $71,795 government charge growing out of last year's month-long "Resurrection City" demonstration.

Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa), leading economy advocate, is demanding stern measures be taken to require SCLC to pay this long overdue account.

In a terse letter to Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, Gross points out that the Interior Department, after repeatedly trying to collect this obligation, turned the matter over to the Justice Department.

Gross also notes that Ralph Abernathy, "the alleged leader of this encampment," has stated SCLC "had no intention of paying the bill."

"Would you please inform me," Gross told Mitchell, "what your Department has done or intends to do to collect this money? What demands have been made upon Abernathy and what has his reply, if any? Has his organization been given a date by which to settle this account?"

Following the dismantling of "Resurrection City" last summer, the Interior Department notified Abernathy that SCLC owed the government $71,795 for removing the shacks and cleaning up and restoring the Mall area near the Lincoln Memorial. When the permit for the so-called "poverty march" encampment was granted, SCLC was required to put up $5,000 as an advance for payment of costs arising from the affair.

In addition to this money, the Interior Department also has $5,500 from the sale of plywood used for the shacks. The $10,500 is in escrow.

When Abernathy and his lieutenants were granted the permit to establish the encampment, they agreed to refund the government's clean-up costs. But a series of conferences with SCLC representatives on the $71,795 claimed by the government for labor and material charges in restoring the park area proved futile.

Finally, last November, former Interior Secretary Stewart Udall turned the problem over to the Justice Department for legal action. Since then nothing has happened.

In Gross' letter to Atty. Gen. Mitchell, the outspoken legislator briskly wanted to know why. Says Gross:

"As you probably know, the United States has never been paid for the great damage done to a large portion of the Mall by a mob which was allowed to camp near the Lincoln Memorial for more than a month last year. Under the former administration, the Interior Department presented a bill for $71,795 to Ralph Abernathy, the alleged leader of this encampment.

"I know that repeated efforts were made to collect this money. Furthermore, I believe I am correct in saying that Abernathy, on one occasion, said his organization had no intention of paying the bill."

Some police authorities in Washington are of the opinion that a definite factor behind the soaring crime rate in the capital is undesirable elements brought in by the SCLC "poverty march" and "Resurrection City" encampment. During its turbulent existence, it was marked by outbreaks of violence and hoodlumism.

Throughout the encampment Abernathy and his lieutenants lived in luxury motels and hotels. In one of them they ran up a bill of more than $20,000, which was finally settled for $17,000.

Views of our readers

The Press welcomes letters from its readers. They must include name and address, which will be withheld if requested, and should not exceed 300 words. All are subject to condensation.

Reader opposes parochialism

TO THE EDITOR:

There has been much talk about state aid to parochial and private schools. Some say that without state aid to private and parochial schools, school children will not have freedom to go to the school of their choice. The private and parochial students are where they are not because of the state but by their own choice, and if they want state aid let them send their children to public schools.

It has been said that if the private and parochial schools send their children to public schools it would cost the state a great amount of money. The amount we would have to pay would be small compared to supporting two school systems.

I am opposed to this bill being passed because it would be too costly to the taxpayer.

The $40,000,000 is only a start. There will be more to pay later.

Passage of the bill would destroy the public school system. Private schools will spring up all over the state and they would be able to get state aid. Another $40,000,000 and another and so on it will go. Along with these private schools would come segregation.

This bill, if passed, will be unconstitutional in this state. We cannot expect non-Catholics to support the teaching of the Catholic religion. There must be a separation of church and state.

We have a difficult time, money-wise, with the public schools now, so how do our lawmakers in Lansing think we can support two separate school systems?

A Taxpayer

What is progressive?

TO THE EDITOR:

Gov. William Milliken has called for educational reform and said he will call a special session of the Legislature on the issue if necessary. "What is clearly needed is solid and total reform of many parts of our educational system, and a clear blueprint for the future," he said.

Our public schools are government schools which we are all taxed to support. On May 19 we will vote on a $11.9 million bond issue to build a new high school.

Recently I ran across this sentence: "Extensive experimentation with soundstage recording, films, broadcasts and lectures suggest that they are too transient for the impartation of profundities, so they have given place to the printed word, the only medium so far developed which lends itself effectively to study, restudy, preservation, reproduction and farflung dissemination." This sentence strengthens my long held belief that "letters to the editor" of local papers have an educational value and support to home rule and community development.

Copies of two pamphlets, "What's Happened To Our Schools" and "How Progressive Is Your School?" were recently given to a member of the school board with a request it be passed to the other members. If parents and taxpayers would read those pamphlets now they would furnish many subjects for "Letters to the Editor" and assure an intelligent vote May 19. The school board could render a service by placing those pamphlets where they would be easily obtainable.

H. E. Bradley

'Importance lies in what is said'

TO THE EDITOR:

I should like to disagree with Peter Fletcher, Georgia Heacock, and Ted Hefley on their idea that The Press should demand all letters written in the "Readers Speak" column must be signed by the name of the writer.

I believe this would become an act of suppression to many, and would curtail the amount of letters written. And in doing so, many fine opinions would never be heard.

It may make a great deal of difference as to whom is writing the article. If the individual is well known to his community, his signature could carry weight, and may be influential in swaying others in their opinion; but if he is just one of the masses, his name would be of very little significance to the readers, except for his friends, upon whom it may have quite an impact, especially if it were controversial to their ideas.

The intellectual is more often to be a non-conformist in his views, and since his friends would be chosen more or less from this category, he enjoys more freedom than masses.

The non-intellectual is more times a conformist to tradition, and takes a strong stand against anything new and venturesome. It may not be fear but wisdom that may keep some from signing a controversial view on some subjects, especially a liberal view. They may not wish a controversy with a friend and take the chance of losing his friendship.

Some of the best poems and songs have been written by anonymous writers, who for some reason chose not to sign their name. I believe the importance lies in what is said, rather than who said it.

Soviet maneuvers Suggest planned European threat

By Paul A. Scott

Press
Special Writer

WASHINGTON — The spring maneuvers of the Moscow-directed Warsaw Pact nations involve far greater numbers of military units and cover a much wider area of Europe than so far reported in the press.

As pieced together by NATO intelligence authorities, the strategic "war games" included the movement of communist ground, air, and sea forces the length of Eastern Europe and in the Black Sea, the Atlantic and Mediterranean Oceans.

In the Black Sea area, Russia's new helicopter equipped carriers were used for the first time to land an invasion force in Bulgaria. This maneuver extended into Romania despite previous statements by the Bucharest government that no Warsaw Pact troops would enter that country.

While no over-all assessment of the purpose of these communist military maneuvers has yet been completed, NATO military chiefs say the highly coordinated exercises were the first the Soviet Bloc had ever staged on so many different fronts at the same time.

"The maneuvers appear to be a test of contingency plans for the future encirclement of Europe," warns one high-level American Intelligence official assigned to assess its significance for the Defense Department.

Round-the-clock American reconnaissance flights, he pointed out, reveal that the 20-vessel fleet that sailed last month from Russia's northern ports is now taking part in the coordinated maneuvers.

This huge task force, led by several ballistic missile-firing nuclear submarines, is in direct radio contact with Moscow's new advance military command center at Milovice, Czechoslovakia. Intelligence analysts here say they cannot remember the Soviet Union placing so many major warships in separate armadas (Atlantic, 20; Mediterranean, 42; Black Sea, 30) and deploying them so far from Soviet Territory in coordinated maneuvers with land forces.

Although most of the Soviet naval flotilla now in the Atlantic is expected to eventually proceed to Vladivostok, the main Russian port on the Pacific, American naval authorities stress the present maneuvers clearly show the growing Soviet naval capability to combat NATO forces.

Even more alarming is the offensive look that the present Russian naval maneuvers in the Atlantic have taken on as they progressed, with long-range, land-based Soviet bombers taking part.

In the Mediterranean naval exercise, the Soviet bombers flew from their newly acquired bases in Egypt as well as from airfields in Southern Russia.

The recent visit of Soviet President Podgorniy to Algeria and Morocco was designed to clear the way for negotiations for the Russians to obtain bases for naval air units in those strategic ocean-bordering nations.

The acquisition of these bases is part of Moscow's grand design to encircle Western Europe with permanent and floating bases in order to cut off the U.S. militarily and politically from Europe, forcing the withdrawal of American troops from the continent.

This outward movement of Soviet military power, according to U.S. intelligence authorities, is likely to see an increase in both the militancy of national-liberation wars and movements and in direct strategic Soviet support for them in Africa, Asia, and South America.

Unless the NATO nations led by the U.S. work out comprehensive plans to deter this new strategy of Soviet leaders, the anticipated result could be far-reaching Soviet hegemony over a substantial portion of the world's territory and population.

Together with major advances in Soviet strategic military power (bigger missiles, ABM, and orbital bombers), and a disintegration of the cohesiveness, power, and will of the non-communist nations, this strategy could decisively tip the balance of world power in favor of the Soviet Union.

Combat casualties drop To two-month low total

SAIGON (AP) — American, South Vietnamese and enemy combat casualties dropped last week to the lowest level in the first six weeks of the Viet Cong's spring offensive, the U.S. and South Vietnamese commands announced today.

The allied announcements said 222 U.S. troops, 246 South Vietnamese soldiers and 3,220 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops were killed in action.

Military analysts said one reason for the sharp drop in fighting was that a virulent strain of malaria is hitting the enemy troops in South Vietnam and they are having difficulty getting the medicines to curb it.

U.S. Army doctors said a type of malaria known as falciparum has reached epidemic proportions in some North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units and has "seriously impaired their combat effectiveness."

Despite the sputtering of the Viet Cong offensive, now in its 47th day, a spokesman for the South Vietnamese command said: "We don't think the offensive is over."

The U.S. Command's weekly casualty summary showed a reduction of nearly 100 American dead last week from the toll of 312 killed the week before. But the 222 Americans killed last week raised to 1,940 the number of U.S. troops who have died in combat since the Viet Cong launched their offensive Feb. 23. The toll of American battlefield casualties since Jan. 1, 1961, now stands at 33,863, or 234 more than the 33,629 U.S. troops killed during the three-year Korean war.

The number of Americans wounded in action last week—1,285—also was the lowest during the offensive.

The 246 South Vietnamese troops reported killed last week was 111 less than the toll the previous week. And the 3,220 enemy troops reported slain was more than 1,000 less than the 4,683 claimed killed the week before.

The malaria situation among the enemy was reported by an Army medical team which said each month "approximately 10 per cent of the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops are ill with malaria," and the average time lost from duty is seven to 10 days per month for each case."

The American doctors said the North Vietnamese had brought the falciparum strain of malaria down the Ho Chi Minh trail, and the rate of the disease in some units has ranged from 50 to 100 per cent.

"In some units, the mortality rate of those afflicted has exceeded 3 per cent," the joint statement said.

The doctors said the disease is on the rise among civilians in the coastal and delta regions of South Vietnam. "And there is little doubt that it has been brought into these areas by North Vietnamese troops who have been positioned there."

Death not asked:

Sirhan shows contempt For downgrading remarks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sirhan Bishara Sirhan glowered and spat obscenities as the state called him "less than a full man" and a liar who should be convicted of first-degree murder for slaying Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Not once in a low key, day-long summation Wednesday did prosecutor David N. Fitts ask for—or even mention—the maximum penalty: death in the gas chamber. The degree, not the penalty, is at stake in this phase of the trial.

Today it was the defense's turn, with Russell E. Parsons—the genial Mormon grandfather who has acted as Sirhan's confidante, calming influence and hand-holder at the counsel table—first before the jury.

Sirhan's defense, that his mental capacity was so diminished he didn't know the meaning of his act, was attacked by Fitts.

"He concede he's sick," Fitts told the jury. "How sick is up to you to decide. Frankly I'm relieved the psychologists and psychiatrists did find him a little bit sick ... the jails are full of people who have committed atrocious acts ... we expect someone who commits murder to be a little bit different."

"We admit Sirhan is less than a full man," said Fitts. "How much less I don't know."

"He is the man you see in the courtroom, the man who testified on the witness stand eagerly, with a dramatic flair, with intelligence that's somewhat unusual in our criminal courts if you will take my word for it."

"He could hardly wait for the next question. He would answer with a sense of the theatrical, deliberately use four-letter words, look at the judge, smile and say, 'I'm sorry.'"

"You think that man at the counsel table didn't know what he was doing? I'm certain he did."

Losing his calm as he had so often in the 14 weeks of trial, Sirhan shot up once during Fitts summation to protest "He's lying, he's lying, he's lying!"

Parsons, performing in a role assigned to him by the judge, gave a hand signal and court was hastily recessed. "I'm not going to put up with this ...", Sirhan muttered as he was led out of the room.

The prosecutor took the outburst calmly. "You expect at least one," he remarked.

DeGaulle boosts Reform referendum

PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle makes one of his rare television appearances tonight to boost lagging interest in his referendum April 27 on constitutional reforms.

There was considerable expectation that De Gaulle would threaten to resign unless his proposals are approved.

In the referendum De Gaulle is seeking approval of his proposals to transfer some of the central government's enormous power to new regional governments and to reduce the national senate to a purely advisory role.

Raymond Tournoux, political editor of Paris Match, reported this week that the president had told an associate: "If the French refuse the referendum ... I shall not remain a day longer in the Elysee." The Elysee is the presidential palace.

Tournoux said De Gaulle takes the position that defeat of his proposals would represent a repudiation of him, and this would undermine the prestige which he feels is the base for French foreign policy.

Serge Maffert, political editor of France Soir, gave a similar report.

Itch takes keen detective work

By HUGH W. BRENNEMAN
Michigan State
Medical Society

When some part of your body itches, should you see a doctor?

Itching is closely related to pain, and may be even more annoying. It may be due to dry skin, excessive bathing, local irritation from soaps, detergents, or cosmetics, skin infection, parasites, or to nerve involvement. It is often made worse by scratching.

To make a diagnosis of the cause of "contact dermatitis", one of the main sources of itching, keen detective work and experience is required.

If the itch is due to a skin disturbance, such as that caused by poison ivy, the quickest and best way is to get medical treatment.

The actual cause of the disturbance on the skin that comes from exposure to poison ivy, is an oil which is produced by the plant. It's an oil which has to come in contact with the human's skin. It reacts with the top layer of the skin and produces blisters, itching and redness. A person, normally, will have to have had a previous exposure to poison ivy before he develops the disturbance.

In other words, he must have come in contact with it at one time and at some later date come in contact with it again. It's at this later date that he'll develop this characteristic picture of poison ivy.

There is a difference in the reaction of people to poison ivy and the disease is treated a little bit lightly today. However, as late as ten to fifteen years ago patients died of massive exposure to poison ivy and it can be of more serious consequence than one might imagine.

Identification of poison ivy is something most of us should learn. Ivy is usually a three-lobed leaf, the end leaf always has a longer stem than do the two side leaves. The strange part about poison ivy is the fact that it may appear as a vine, it may appear as a miniature tree, it can be a shrub, it can climb or it can crawl.

Poison ivy is usually found on dry ground, whereas poison sumac, which is a sumac that turns a gorgeous red color in the Fall, is usually found with its roots in dampness or in swampy grounds. So, in the Fall of the year people who want specimen shrubs for their lawn should be cautioned that that beautiful red bush that they see in the marshy ground, and that some duck hunters use when they build their blinds, may be poison sumac!

There seems to be no neutralizing chemical, that can be used to destroy the oily substance of poison ivy. The only method of protection is clothing or perhaps putting some substance on the skin, such as heavy oil or grease, which would keep the poison ivy oil from coming in direct contact with the skin.

A number of years ago it was felt that a method of immunization might be found against poison ivy either by injection or by use of oral medication, but doctors found that the actual protection afforded by such immunization is not present at all. In fact people have taken a poison ivy extract by mouth and have developed such a severe case of poison ivy they've had to be hospitalized.

Doctors have, since the advent of cortisone drugs, a great weapon against the effects of poison ivy. These will decrease the reaction of the skin to the specific oil of the poison ivy plant and prevent or modify the disease process itself.

Another common condition, particularly in the late Spring and early Summer months is "swimmer's itch". This is caused by a microscopic parasite. The definitive host for these parasite is birds and mammals — especially ducks. As a result of the excreta of the mammals and ducks the parasite is transmitted to the water where it lives in its second host — the snail. The snail prefers to live in lakes in which there is virtually no wave action — the parasites usually live in the shallow water. As a result the person in such a lake will be walking around in water up to his ankles or knees and these tiny little parasites will burrow into the skin.

This is much like poison ivy in the fact that a previous exposure is necessary. As the little parasite burrows into the skin an itching begins and within a matter of 12 hours, or so, red spots are developed which are intensely itchy over the areas of exposure.

This, then is a disease of children and non-swimmers since they usually are in the shallow water. The treatment is relatively simple — usually something that will relieve the itch.

If the exposure has been massive, hospitalization may be required because of the intense reaction of the skin. But this is the rare exception.

Coeds win Magazine Board posts

Marilyn Baker and Barbara Campbell will represent Eastern Michigan University on the 1,000-member college board chosen each year by Mademoiselle Magazine.

The two coeds will be among college students gaining experience in publishing while still in school.

Miss Baker, a junior, and Miss Campbell, a sophomore, will be among those contributing to the magazine to keep it abreast of campus trends. They will report regularly on events at the college, do research articles and help the fashion editors select models for college fashion features as required.

Each girl will remain on the board until she graduates. And each is eligible to be one of 20 chosen as guest editors on the magazine with a month in New York.

Dust retards Plant's growth

If dust and soot build up on the leaves of foliage plants — such as rubber plants, Chinese evergreen, and philodendrons — they are prevented from absorbing the carbon dioxide which is vital to their life and growth.

Washing both sides of the leaves weekly with light soapsuds opens their pores and helps to prevent a build up of insects.

Gentle cookery

For best results with cheese recipes use low heat. Many cheeses turn tough if cooked at high temperatures.

MRS. RONALD WILSON
(The former Miss Brenda J. Shortridge)

Mountain trip follows Wilson-Shortridge rites

A honeymoon in the Great Smoky Mountains followed the wedding Saturday of Miss Brenda J. Shortridge of 1680 Victor Ave. and Ronald Wilson of 8657 Deering St.

The newlyweds have been touring the mountains in Tennessee, Virginia and Kentucky on their week's trip.

On their return, they will live at 1680 Victor Ave.

The bride is the daughter of the Hassell L. Shortridges of that address. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. Delmar Wilson of 1294 Pasadena St. and the late Mrs. Wilson.

Their wedding was solemnized by the Rev. C. G. Marion at 3 p.m. Saturday at the Free Pentecostal Church of God in Dearborn Heights. The bride's costume was a silk organza gown with bridal bishop sleeves trimmed in Venice lace and a bouffant pouf veil attached to a crown of tulle and lace. The gown featured lace trimming on the bodice, jewel neckline and belt skirt. Her bouquet was a cascade of miniature white carnations centered by a removable corsage.

Her four bridal attendants wore karate-styled A-line gowns of chiffon with long, loose sleeves and chiffon shoulder trains. Their high necklines were trimmed in Venice lace. Headpieces were formed by chiffon rose petals with nose veils. They carried nosegays of variegated pink miniature carnations with pink satin streamers.

The bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Ronald L. Shortridge of 4124 Diamond St., was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Ruby Looney of Grunda, Va., the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Louie Kitts of 8657 Deering St., and the bridegroom's niece, Miss Debby Raines of 297 Oregon Ave.

Four brothers of the bridal couple were in the male retinue. The bridegroom's brother, Ray, of 1355 E. Cross St., was best man and his brothers, Jimmie and Ernest, both of 8657 Deering St., were ushers, with the bride's brother, Ronald Shortridge.

The bride's cousins, David and Rebecca Shortridge of Vansant, Va., were ringbearer and flower girl.

The reception took place at the Ladies' Literary Club at 4:30 that afternoon.

When they left on their mountain vacation, the bride wore a three-piece yellow suit with white jacket and accessories and her bridal-bouquet corsage.

The bride is a 1965 graduate of Grundy Senior High School and attended Pikeville College in Pikeville, Ky. She is a secretary with the Ford Motor Co. at the Rawsonville plant.

The bridegroom, who attended Willow Run High School, is employed by the Great Scott Supermarkets in Ypsilanti.

Cuban Women aid Americans

MIAMI (AP) — Something different has sprung up behind the Intrigue Curtain of Miami's Little Havana: The Cuban Women's Club, which is trying to help Americans.

Rather than spending their time plotting against Fidel Castro, as do perhaps hundreds of other exile organizations, the senoras concentrate on community service to Americans as well as Cubans.

"We want to help repay the Americans, in our small way, for their help to the refugees," said Julieta O'Farrell de Secades, president of the new club. "At the same time, we want to help the Cubans here."

As its opening project, the club offered a layette to the first needy baby born on Cuban patriot Jose Marti's birthday Jan. 28. An American Negro infant was the winner.

Another project is to cheer lonely hospital patients.

"There are many Americans who are sick and alone," said Mrs. Secades. "We are going to visit lonely people in hospitals — both American and Cuban patients — and offer them a gift."

HELOISE'S HINTS

Soak those eyeglasses!

By HELOISE CRUSE
DEAR HELOISE: As a manufacturer of eyeglass frames I'd like to pass along some information that our Research and Development Department offers on the care of American-made nylon eyeglasses.

These frames love moisture and become stronger when they are moisture-conditioned. If fact, you might even soak the frames in water overnight. It's advisable to use a soft toothbrush several times a week to scrub lightly over the hinge area with water and a small amount of detergent, rinse and they dry.

These frames are very tough, but will give you even greater wear if you will care for them properly. Mr. Raymond Criss, Pres. Optical Mant. Co.

P.S. If a patient isn't sure whether his frames are nylon or not, it usually will be stamped "nylon" on one of the temples.

DEAR HELOISE: When you want escalloped potatoes and don't have time to make the conventional dish, try this:

Peel and slice potatoes as usual, boil in salted water until almost done.

Place them in a baking dish and pour a can of cream soup (mushroom or chicken, etc.) diluted with one-half cup of milk over the potatoes. Sprinkle grated cheese or crumbled bacon on top.

Bake in a 350 degree oven. Delicious! Mrs. R. M. P.

That rates a spot in the ol' recipe file for us gals.

We're always on the lookout for dishes that are fast, easy and delish. And this fills the bill. Right? Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: After struggling for years with either too muddy ground or too dry ground, when I wanted to display my flag on holidays, I finally solved my problem for all times.

I filled a three-pound coffee can with sand, put the cover back on, and made a round hole in the center of the plastic cover. Presto! A nice flag stand for all kinds of weather. Hazel Brekke

Young need art freedom

Special to The Press
NEW YORK, N.Y. — In spite of television, uncomic books and a flood of articles on the subject of child-rearing, children continue to be children.

They still have the imaginations to see beyond what weary adult eyes can perceive — Indian ponies riding the sky, leprechauns on every leaf, elves and fairies dancing in the firelight. And often, unknowingly, they have the ability to translate that vision in art form.

Unfortunately, both vision and talent oft die aborning. How many of us wish we could still look on the world with wide eyes and make fresh discoveries every five minutes? Wouldn't it be nice if our children could bring that world back to us?

If we let them, they can. According to Lucille Koltnow, director of the Children's Art Gallery in New York, children should be both seen and heard.

"Just listen," she says. "They know what they want to do." And what they do is valid in and of itself. Among the factors that make this gallery unique is the opportunity for a child to exhibit his work in a one man show. But though it emphasizes the work of the talented child, the gallery is most important for the encouragement it gives all young people to express what they see. Youngsters who visit there and can see what other children are doing come away with a new feeling for art, a new identity with it, that a trip to the museum could never inspire.

Miss Koltnow receives work from children who have only average talent; yet she cherishes their offerings as unique translations of a unique world — fresh, honest, self-aware and unselfconscious portrayals of the universe through a child's eyes and fingertips. Every child is an artist in his own way, as long as he interprets what he sees, and not what an adult tells him to see. All too often artistic enthusiasm is squelched by a teacher or parent who admonishes that cows are brown and not lavender.

The work in the gallery is in all media — clay, pencil, crayon, oils and water colors.

Usually, the child's art needs are so disarmingly simple that it's easy to forget that quality counts, even to the toddler.

Crayons that go on smoothly and evenly, pencils of the hardness he desires, water colors that are pure and bright are more than just toys to him.

According to New York's Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, "Art is essential in the development of every child. It helps to coordinate his manual, emotional and intellectual capacities. In creative art experiences, a child observes, rather than memorizes; expresses rather than repeats. Because art enlists the imagination of a child and impels him to become more aware, use initiative and judge things from his own experience, art activities advance all education."

But it's the kind of education that proceeds best without a too-strict teacher. Miss Koltnow offers these tips to parents interested in developing their child's artistic abilities:

1. Be generous with praise and encouragement.

Zucchini, tomato Accent cutlets

Special to The Press
CHICAGO — It's fiesta time when you serve veal cutlets with a South-of-the-Border accent.

First, these cutlets are breaded, then cooked slowly with color-laden tomatoes and their favorite herb companion, oregano. Zucchini squash adds a novel note.

The preparation of Mexican Veal Cutlets with Zucchini goes most easily if the cutlets are chilled before browning, says Reba Staggs, meat expert with the National Live Stock and Meat Board. This makes the egg-crumbs coating adhere best.

For six veal cutlets, cut one-half inch thick, use one beaten egg and two-thirds cup of fine dry bread crumbs. Brown the coated cutlets in one-fourth cup of lard or drippings; pour off drippings if there are any left.

Now add one 16-oz. can of tomatoes, one and one-half teaspoons salt and one-half teaspoon oregano. Cover tightly and cook slowly 30 minutes. Add to the veal-tomato combination three medium-sized zucchini squash, cut crosswise in one-half inch slices. Continue cooking approximately 15 minutes longer. Remove meat and zucchini to hot platter. Thicken cooking liquid with flour for gravy, if desired. This gives six servings for luncheon or dinner.

Veal cutlets are serving-sized portions of veal round steak. They are usually available as "cutlets," but if not, six portions may be cut from two veal round steaks.

Tenderness mystery Solved by pot roast

There are two ways of preparing the cut called beef sirloin tip roast.

It depends upon quality as well as preference of the homemaker, a meat expert says. If the cut is of high quality, it can be prepared by roasting, that is, cooking on a rack in a shallow, open pan.

When the quality is uncertain, the quality is uncertain, it's best to make a pot-roast out of it. That means braising which is cooking by moist heat. Here are directions for this method, using intriguing spicing.

Steak cooks Slowly in Onion soup

Foods like this Onion Steak use inexpensive cuts of meat and don't need constant watching if the temperature is kept low.

ONION STEAK
 1 beef arm or blade steak, cut 1-inch thick
 3 tablespoons lard or drippings

1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) condensed onion soup

1 package (10 ounces) frozen Lima beans
 Brown steak in lard or drippings. Pour off drippings. Season with salt and pepper. Add condensed onion soup. Cover tightly and cook slowly for 2 hours. Add lima beans and continue cooking for 25 to 30 minutes or until meat is tender and beans are done. Thicken liquid for gravy, if desired, 4 to 6 servings.

BEST YET POT-ROAST
 4 to 5-pound beef sirloin tip pot-roast
 3 tablespoons lard or drippings

1 tablespoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 1 tablespoon basil
 1 teaspoon oregano
 1 teaspoon rosemary
 1/2 teaspoon thyme
 1/2 teaspoon cumin
 1 cup water

Keeping in trim:

She feels younger than springtime

By IDA JEAN KAIN
An eye-opener proved to be the start of an unexpectedly successful reducing regime for the dieter in today's letter. She began, "I am writing this letter hoping it will help others as much as I have been helped by reading the letters in your column for years."

"I have always been fat but thought I was careful of what I ate. Then a year ago, I went to the doctor for an examination and help. He had me count calories for a blanced diet and write down every bite I ate. This I did for two weeks, totaling calories each day.

"In two and a half months I lost 23 pounds. I am tall and large-boned and a weight of 135 pounds gave me a good figure. Best of all is that I am able to hold this weight which I never believed possible.

"I exercised every day for those two and a half months which helped me in many ways. I had read in your column that a half hour after meals you would no longer feel hungry. It's true! I would jump right up after meals and do the dishes to pass that time. I tried to keep my mind occupied.

"Spring and fall I work in the fields. In the winter months, I take special exercises to improve my figure — and because it makes me feel so good. Now all my clothes fit well, and I can sew from a straight size pattern without enlarging it here and there.

"I cannot express the satisfaction I feel. I eat almost everything at times but I take only very small portions. This prevents that miserable stuffed feeling.

"I hope I have gotten my message across. I still read your column each week in Cappers' Weekly and continue to do so. I see so many heavy young women . . . I just wish I could convince them how much better they would feel, not to mention look, if they would stop over-eating. I was skeptical that your plan of protective eating would keep my weight right. But the plan works! I am 48 years old . . . and feel wonderful and younger."

There are significant reasons for this homemaker's happy success.

Single adult Party slated

Single adults 39 years of age and over are invited to a potluck supper and an evening of entertainment on Friday evening at 6:30 p.m. at the Clinton School on Birch Hollow Dr. in Ann Arbor.

Those wishing to attend should bring a dish to pass and their own table service.

Groups seek to cheer Patients in hospital

Tray favors and other decorations to brighten the days of patients at Beyer Memorial Hospital came in many armloads in the days previous to Easter.

In the spirit of community interest, that a hospital worker terms usual for every pre-holiday period, scout troops, church groups, and college organizations brought pretty gifts for patients trays and to decorate their rooms.

Among the varieties of tray favors were little chicks brought by Brownie Troop No. 512, spring flowers by the Ladies' Missionary Fellowship of the Trinity Baptist Church, rosebud favors by Brownie Troop 452 of Chapelle School, Easter bunnies for the new mothers in obstetrics and Easter card favors for 40 others by the North Prospect Baptist church, and Easter baskets by the Belleville High School Future Nurses Club.

Two groups brought baskets for the children in pediatrics. Girl Scout Troop 445 brought baskets. And a fraternity group from Eastern Michigan University brought baskets as well as a movie which they screened for the 15- or 16 youngsters in the ward.

Their baskets were little sandpails filled with vari-sized eggs, crayons and scratch-pads. This group is one that also brings items for Christmas, Halloween, and other occasions.

Easter bonnets and cards for the children were brought by the Campus Service Corps at EMU.

For information on providing favors for patients, such as the numbers needed, calls may be placed to the Beyer chief dietitian, Mrs. Marion Vorce or, for children's items, the pediatrics supervisor Mrs. Ruth Knap.

Bake sale leads off Spring CWU schedule

Home made baked goods will be put on sale tomorrow at the W. Michigan Ave. Kroger Store by the Church Women United of Ypsilanti.

Besides enjoying the cakes, rolls, pies and cookies, buyers will have helped the church women support state and national activities such as Causeways, where women of different nations learn to know one another; aid for international students; aid for migrant workers; reconciliation in our own urban areas and in Vietnam.

Funds are also needed to finance the local celebrations of Church Women United: the World Day of Prayer in March, World Community Day in November, May Fellowship Day, and the Annual Tea in December.

Church Women United of the Lower Peninsula will have a three-day Annual Assembly at East Congregational Church in Grand Rapids beginning next Wednesday. The theme is "Hope — A Christian Life Style!"

Sister Ann Ida Gannon, president of Mundelein College in Chicago, will be one featured speaker at the meeting. She is known for her "quiet charm, interwoven with a keen intellect and sparkling theological insights."

From this area, Mrs. Clarence Henry, Mrs. Paul Woods, Mrs. Clayborn Taylor, Mrs. Alfred E. Brose and

Hospital Volunteers Sought

The Volunteer Department at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor, is planning a Spring Recruitment Tea to be held next Wednesday, announces Mrs. Roger Staples, director of volunteer services.

A committee of volunteers is helping to plan the tea which will be from 1:30 to 4:00 p.m. at 328 N. Ingalls St., next door to the hospital.

Serving on the committee are Mrs. Clarence Mauck, Mrs. Paul Chamberlin, and Mrs. Robert Gockel.

All persons interested in learning more about service through hospital volunteering are invited to the tea.

Mrs. Richard Woodward are planning to attend.

On May 2, Ypsilanti Church Women will be "tuned in" to the problems of physically and emotionally handicapped persons. The May Fellowship Luncheon will be held in a coffee house atmosphere called "The Place of the Next Step", at First United Methodist Church. Mrs. Robert T. Hunt, chairman, is arranging activities, which will include a guitarist who will sing student-written works, a main address by Mrs. Travis Cash of Ann Arbor and the Lord's Prayer in the sign language of the deaf by Dr. Carl E. Garber of the EMU Speech Clinic.

There will be later information for making this "trip" to increased understanding, but tickets are already available from leaders of women's associations in churches. The profits from this salad luncheon are also used for general operating expenses of Church Women United.

State Board of Education asks Milliken to act now

LANSING (AP) — "There is a time to study and a time to act," the State Education Board told Gov. William Milliken Wednesday.

"Surely this is the time to act," the board advised the governor tartly on the school aid issue.

The board was referring to Milliken's call for a new study commission on education. It said this ignores a study completed just a year ago at the cost of $200,000—"the most comprehensive ever made."

Many of its recommendations for a state school aid budget, the board said, were based on this study.

The board declared itself terribly concerned that unless an adequate school aid appropriation bill is passed immediately by the Legislature "the stage will be set for a large number of teacher strikes this fall."

In 1967, when state aid was not allocated until mid-summer, more than 50 schools did not open on time, the board noted.

"Teachers and schoolboards didn't know how much money they would have, until too late in their negotiations," the board said.

Last year, the board said, the school bill was signed by the governor in April and about one half as many districts didn't open when scheduled.

"We are alarmed that we are rapidly approaching last year's final enactment date, and this year's state aid bill isn't even out of committee," it said.

"Unless the Legislature moves rapidly on the State Aid Act, many schools are not going to open this fall," the board warned.

Sander Levin, minority leader in the Michigan Senate, said Wednesday in Kalamazoo that action by the Legislature must be taken soon.

"The legislative session has to take up the education reform issue now," he said. "Not in the fall."

Referring to proposals in Lansing to shift the taxation burden from property tax, Levin said: "We're talking about reform, a shift of the tax burden, not necessarily higher taxes in this area."

The education board urged legislative passage by May 1 plus at least a $55 million boost to the $85 million suggested for state school aid.

Cosby's special Slips by fast, Entertainingly

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Childhood memories provide a rich lode for mining by comedians, as Sam Levinson and more recently Bill Cosby can testify. But it requires special skill, sentiment and a kind of resigned tolerance to pull them off so that the result is both funny and affectionate.

Cosby, in his NBC special Wednesday night, had one long monologue that must have had points of identification for men with sharp memories of their boyhoods, men with young sons and all mothers of little boys. That's a big audience.

The comedian took all the parts in a midnight drama involving himself at the age of eight, his five-year-old brother and his father. The boys quarreled, fought, cried, lied and generally raised hob. Cosby carried the whole thing off beautifully, and it occupied the best part of 30 minutes.

In the second half of the hour there was another elaborate sketch in which Cosby, in wig and long beard played the part of Noah in a contemporary version of building of the ark.

Like David Steinberg's now-controversial version of Jonah and the whale, reaction to the piece depended on the viewer's attitude and mood. Although Bible stories are big with comedians this season, it is not often one dares to introduce the voice of the Lord playing straight man in a sketch. Cosby dared and, by and large, got away with it.

The Noah sequence was also the frame from a big dance production number, and earlier there was some gospel singing by a group. But it was essentially a one-man show.

Bill Cosby is a perceptive and warm comedian who has apparently total recall of the emotions and exaggerations of childhood. It was an hour that slipped by quickly and entertainingly.

When ABC presents its annual Oscar awards show live from the West Coast next Monday night, viewers will find many things have changed.

Bob Hope—master of ceremonies every year when he didn't have a sponsor conflict—will be missing from the rostrum and in his place will be 10 of Hollywood's top stars. The festivities will come from Los Angeles' handsome music center instead of the big auditorium in Santa Monica. Gower Champion will produce and direct for the first time. It is, apparently, the motion picture industry's answer to criticism about the quality of the previous programs.

Fred Astaire, who has done several special programs and played host on an anthology series, has signed to play a recurring role in ABC's "It Takes a Thief" when it returns to the screens next fall. He will play star Robert Wagner's father, a semiretired superthief.

Title insurance Study under way

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators looking into the costs of buying and selling homes are converging from two directions on the title insurance industry.

They want to know if premium rates have been set in violation of antitrust laws, and how titling costs borne by buyers and sellers of real estate relate to insurers' profits, loss payouts and operating costs.

So far, investigators have run into a lack of industry-wide statistics and a bewildering maze of local practices. But one investigator said indications are "that the American home-buyer is being overcharged $50 million annually for title insurance."

A title industry spokesman disputed that claim. He said the business is misunderstood by the public and that an investigation might be a good way to bring it into the light.

Title insurance is designed to financially protect the home-owner and mortgage lender against the chance that title to their property will be contested because of old lines, back taxes or the return of missing heirs.

A preliminary inquiry into the industry's operations already is being conducted by staff members of the Senate Banking Committee and the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee.

The Banking Committee expects to hold public hearings in early summer. Its second-ranking Democrat, Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin, earlier asked the Federal Reserve Board to investigate title insurance premiums as part of its responsibility in administering the new truth-in-lending law. The board refused.

"The latest authoritative data we have indicates that the loss ratio for title insurance companies was about 1.7 per cent," Proxmire said. "This means for every $100 that the title insurance companies take in in premiums, they pay out only $1.70 in claims."

Aides to the antitrust and monopoly subcommittee under Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., moved into title insurance as an adjunct to their probe of auto insurance. But they are expected to leave public hearings to the Banking Committee.

Title insurance industry spokesmen contend it is erroneous to consider loss ratios in their business in the same way they are considered in automobile or other casualty insurance. They maintain that the bulk of titling fees actually pay for the investigative work to make certain the title is included.

The government itself is a major purchaser of title insurance. The Federal Housing Administration is currently studying whether it should quit buying title insurance on houses it repossesses and then resells. The study follows a General Accounting Office report that FHA could save $2.7 million this budget year simply by guaranteeing title itself rather than buying insurance.

The GAO checked title searches on one set of 9,000 properties the FHA acquired during 1966. It found that the minor defects in titles had all been corrected for a total expenditure of less than $1,000, but that FHA had paid $687,000 for title insurance on the properties.

National title insurance firms for some years have charged $3.50 per $1,000 of property sale price for an owner's policy and $2.50 per $1,000 for a mortgage lender's policy. A policy protecting both costs slightly more than an owner's policy. A one-time-only premium is paid when the policy is issued.

Many title men commonly refer to these rates as the national rates, but others, aware of antitrust implications of rate uniformity, studiously avoid terming them national rates. They acknowledge, however, that uniform rates in practice exist nationally.

The Department of Justice said it has never investigated title insurance rates from an antitrust standpoint. The department, however, has opposed some mergers of title firms on antitrust grounds.

Prof. John Payne of the University of Alabama Law School, a specialist in the field who is compiling figures on home-buying closing costs for the American Bar Association, wrote Proxmire's staff: "I would presume that the national rate is a violation of the antitrust laws." "In any event," Payne said, "the national rate is not based on any rational criteria. No actuarial data as to title company operation is available, and the rates seem to have been fixed arbitrarily. The lack of information as to company operations is so far as I know, unique in the insurance industry."

Navajos stay in poverty

(Second in a series)
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navajo project is an example of both the failure and the future of VISTA.

The huge, rugged Indian reservation—long imprisoned in poverty—is caught today in cross-currents of change. At Sheep Springs, N.M., a tall TV aerial rises above a timber and mud-walled hogan. At Window Rock, Ariz., many Navajos live in ranch-style homes. But other Indians are haunted by hunger and hopelessness.

For four years VISTA has been sending volunteers to the far reaches of this beautiful, barren land. Once there were 64. Now there are five.

"The program was a flop. It was lousy," said Jimmy Begaye, a bronze-faced Navajo educator who now runs the VISTA project.

Volunteers had been strewn around the reservation without specific assignments on how to help. "We were virtually a bunch of young kids who didn't know how to do anything," said Sandy Harrod.

Jo-Anne Nola, now a teacher at San Jose, Calif., recalled spending her first eight months in a desolate corner of the reservation without transportation to the far-flung Navajo villages she was supposed to serve.

Except for the satisfaction of having made some inroads in the Indian's long distrust of the white man, she said "it would have been a total waste."

The Navajos have replaced the previous program with their own plan for the eventual enlistment of young Indian leaders as local VISTA volunteers. The only white VISTA workers sent in from the outside will be specialists with needed skills.

Carpenters, business consultants and teachers head this list. But Begaye said he was disappointed with the backgrounds of several volunteers when the first group of 26 arrived for training last month.

"They were sending us people like stage coach drivers or coin collectors or piano players," Begaye said.

"Maybe they thought a stage coach driver was just what we needed out here," laughed grizzled George Young, his gold teeth showing.

In Washington, Kennedy said the Navajos were probably looking at the volunteers' pastimes, not their professions. He said VISTA sent precisely the skilled specialists they asked for.

Kennedy—no relation to the fabled political family—sees the future of VISTA in volunteers who have ideas to match their ideals.

Craig Robinson, 24, from Buffalo, N.Y., became a soft-spoken crusader in West Virginia's "black lung" movement after pouring through medical books on the miners' disease.

Robinson helped organize the first meetings of miners in the state's ridge-wrinkled southern coal hills last autumn to hear a physician speak out against the illness. Other VISTA volunteers aided in adjoining counties.

An antipoverty lawyer working with Robinson at Mabscott, W.Va., drew up the original version of the "black lung" legislation calling for state compensation payments for miners disabled by the ailment.

Without VISTA involvement, the miners' movement sprang up independently in other parts of the state. Eventually the miners walked out in a statewide strike that idled 42,000 men and crippled coal production before the legislature passed the "black lung" law last month.

J. E. (Ned) Watson, a leading state legislator, blamed VISTA for "encouraging them to walk out and go on strike." The miners denied this. And VISTA volunteer Robinson, who was out of town the day the strike began in his county, said the walkout came as a surprise.

State tenure commission to consider several judges

LANSING (AP) — Formal adoption of rules governing Judicial Tenure Commission investigations was the order of business today for the Supreme Court as officials indicated probes of several judges are being considered.

Chief Justice Thomas Brennan of the Supreme Court announced Wednesday the court had tentatively approved rules for the watchdog commission.

"There are a number of instances across the state where investigation is called for," Brennan said. He called the new judicial review system necessary to determine if any particular judge is a "disgrace to the bench or if he has caused a sense of reduction in public respect for the courts."

While saying "there are overwhelming instances across the state where investigation is called for," Brennan declined to elaborate on what cases might now or soon be on the commission's docket.

He said the commission was meeting as he addressed a news conference.

The chief justice also specifically declined to comment on the recent controversy surrounding Detroit Recorder's Court Judge George Crockett.

Crockett has been criticized for releasing prisoners arrested by police in a shoot-out March 31.

At a noon court session Crockett ordered the release of nine persons the police wanted held for further investigation.

Earlier in the day he freed 16 persons on bond, ordered them to reappear at the noon session, and discharged a 17th person with the consent of the prosecutor.

The prosecutor asked for warrants on only two of the 142 persons arrested.

"There is no case against Judge Crockett," Brennan said. The nine-man Judicial Tenure Commission is empowered to investigate the personal, mental and moral activity and standards of any judge of the state, from a traffic referee to a Supreme Court justice.

By a majority vote, the commission could recommend that the Supreme Court remove a judge or court officer, suspend him temporarily, with or without pay, censure him or order him to retire.

On the other hand, the commission could work in private to encourage a judge to retire or resign. It could also exonerate him.

Any recommendation by the commission would follow these earlier steps:

—An initial, private investigation by the commission, relying on the resources and manpower of the court administrator's office. That office is to handle all citizen complaints directed to the commission.

The preliminary investigation, Brennan said, attempts to "assure there will not be undue destruction of a judge's good name."

—Filing of a formal complaint, and the name of the person making it. That document would be public.

—A formal, public hearing into the charges by the Supreme Court.

Under the rules, the Supreme Court chief justice also could order the commission to investigate a judge. It could also investigate one of its own members. Such a member would be suspended from participating in his own case except to testify.

All activities of the commission, until a formal complaint is filed, will be secret, Brennan said.

Everything after that point becomes public.

Any person complaining to the commission, however, would be free to air his allegations elsewhere. "There'll be no little red stamp," Brennan said.

He referred to earlier complaints, brought before the high court, that the State Bar Association intimidated citizens who wrote to complain about judges or lawyers.

Rep. Thomas Sharpe, R-Howell, testified before the court that such a red stamp warned persons not to mention their allegations to others under penalty of court action.

Brennan said the commission would begin work with "a lot of citizen complaint letters. They'll have to read their mail," he said.

Average home garbage Costs $6.80 to haul

LANSING (AP) — The average American community spends $6.80 a day to haul away, burn or bury the garbage — less than six pounds — that the average citizen throws out.

From the small beginning springs what the Michigan Chamber of Commerce calls a $3-billion problem in industrial and community waste disposal now facing the state.

The chamber has estimated that to get rid of the sophisticated byproducts of industry and modern living may cost as much as 10 per cent of the gross national product within the next 20 years.

A chamber-sponsored meeting on the problem Wednesday drew some 250 experts, concerned government officials and industry representatives.

Focus of the day-long conference was "solid waste," which, experts say, should be distinguished from common household garbage. Most of that is food and can be burned or chemically decomposed.

Solid waste is the more sophisticated trash of modern technology: the thousands of gallons of paint solvent used and discarded by the auto industry; 30 million tons of paper abandoned every year, along with 26 billion bottles and 48 billion cans built to resist rust and destruction.

State efforts to deal with the problem were outlined by Fred B. Kellow, environmental engineer for the State Public Health Department.

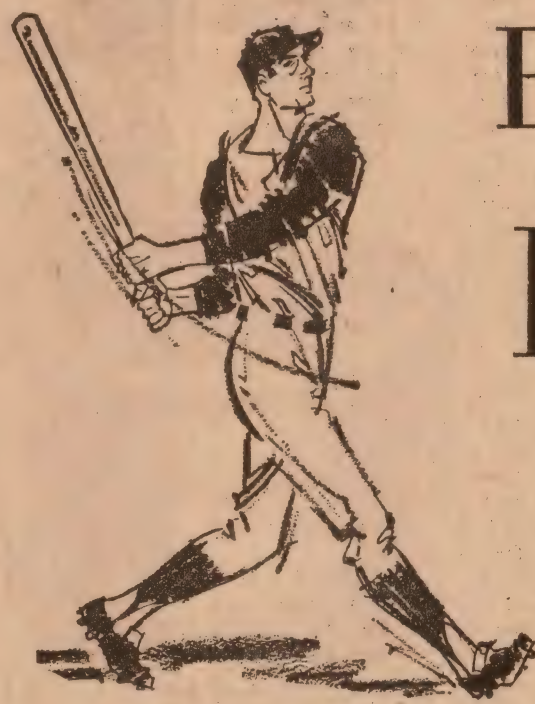

Two bills now in legislative committees, Kellow said, would allow communities to increase taxes to treat industrial waste and also receive federal funds to build incinerators or land fill dumps. Current state laws allow communities to tax only for garbage collection.

One problem, Kellow said, is that waste disposal isn't popular. No one wants a city dump or incinerator next door, "and the battling average for zoning approval for these sites is very low," he said.

He suggested cities offer to pay rural governments to build the sites.

Administration of a Flint-Genesee County Metropolitan Authority was described by Robert L. Campbell, a Buick engineer. He said land fills handle most of Flint's residential waste but could not cope with industrial matter.

One expert, Calvin Lieberman, national treasurer of the Institute of Scrap Iron and Steel, warned the conference that "you can't destroy anything, you can't create anything. You can only change its form."

Rookie's hit beats Twins; Senators defeat New York

By the Associated Press
It was a draw for 17 moves until Lou Piniella, the chess enthusiast, check-mated the Minnesota Twins.

Piniella, who had four hits in Kansas City's 12-inning opening game victory over the Twins, managed only one in Wednesday night's 17-inning affair but it came at the right moment and gave the expansionist Royals their second straight extra-inning 4-3 victory over the Twins.

It was Piniella's two-out single in the 17th that chased

Jack Hernandez home with the Royals' winning run and ended the marathon. That made the rookie outfielder a KC hero for the second straight day which isn't bad, considering that he wasn't even with the club until last week.

The Royals swapped outfielder Steve Whitaker and pitcher John Gelnar to get Piniella and after Wednesday night, it looked like a steal for Kansas City. Whitaker made two errors on the same play in a four-run California rally that helped the Angels to a 7-3 victory over the Pilots.

In Wednesday's other American League action, Chicago shut out Oakland 3-0 and Washington dropped New York 6-4. The other teams were not scheduled.

Piniella, who has toted his chess board to such diverse locations as Selma, Peninsula, Aberdeen, Baltimore, Elmira, Portland and Cleveland, during six minor league seasons, seems to have found a home in Kansas City.

He became an instant favorite with his four-hit debut and Wednesday's winning hit didn't hurt his standing with Kansas City fans, whose last hero was the mule that cavorted in the Athletics' outfield during Charley Finley's stay in town.

The Royals had tied the game in the eighth inning on a two-out single by Joe Foy after Rod Carew's daring steal of home had given Minnesota a 3-2 edge in the fifth.

The victory left the Royals all alone in first place in the American League's Western Division and that's better than a mule any time.

Whitaker was the goat in the Pilots' loss at California.

Seattle was leading 3-1 when Jim Fregosi opened the fifth inning with a single. Jay Johnstone doubled and when Whitaker first bobbled the ball and then threw wild, both runners scored, tying the game.

A walk and three straight singles by Leo Rodriguez, Tom Satriano and Bobby Knoop gave the Angels two more runs and the lead they never surrendered.

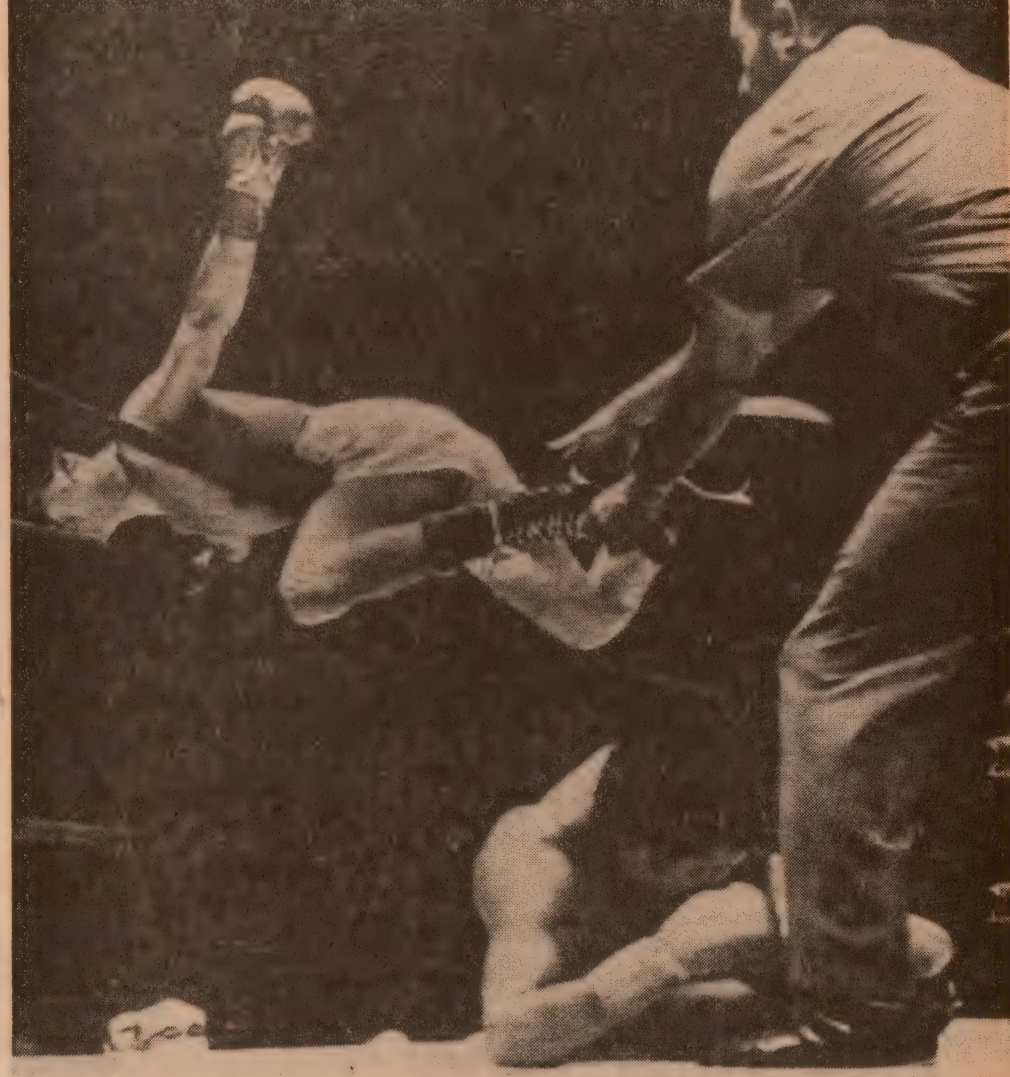

Don Mincher, an ex-Angel, homered for the Pilots.

The Senators used home runs by Frank Howard, Paul Casanova and Ken McMullen to beat the Yankees and give Ted Williams his first victory as manager.

Howard and Casanova both had two-run shots in the third inning, wiping out an early 3-0 New York edge. McMullen had a solo shot and drove in another run with a sixth-inning single. Bobby Murcer and Roy White homered for the Yankees.

Carlos May blasted a pair of homers and a single, driving in all three Chicago runs as Tommy John blanked the Athletics. John, making a comeback after injuring his shoulder in a late 1968 battle with Detroit's Dick McAuliffe, scattered four hits and struck out four.

May homered in the third and sixth and singled home the White Sox' other run in the eighth.

Boston goes ahead, 2-0

New York Shooting Is 'worst'

BOSTON (AP) — The New York Knicks picked the wrong time to stage their poorest shooting exhibition of the National Basketball Association season, but the Boston Celtics won't mind if they try for an encore.

"That first half was the worst we ever had," Knicks' Coach Red Holzman said Wednesday night after the Celtics crushed his club 112-97 to take a 2-0 lead in their best-of-7 Eastern Division final series.

Boston Player-Coach Bill Russell, who played a fantastic all-around game, agreed that he had never seen the Knicks look colder.

"But if they want to do it again tomorrow night, it's okay with me," he said of the third game scheduled for tonight in New York's Madison Square Garden.

The Celtics were running all the way, hitting the open man, getting the good shots and making them.

The Knicks, meanwhile, hit only three of 23 shots in the first period, managed only nine of 47 for the half, and were out of the game before they knew it.

"They played well, had good defense and ran well," Holzman said, "but still we had a lot of good shots at the beginning. We just missed them."

The 35-year-old Russell scored 14 points, hauled in 29 rebounds and was his usual intimidating self on defense.

"Russell is a great defensive basketball player — he's the greatest defensive center who ever lived," Holzman said.

Bailey Howell led the Celtics in scoring with 27 points, with five other players hitting in double figures.

But the real story of the game was told in the ineffectiveness of the Knicks, who scored only 14 points in the opening period, 19 in the second session, and went off trailing 55-33 at intermission.

Willis Reed of the Knicks wound up leading all scorers with 28 points.

The easy Boston victories were a complete switch on the regular season, when the Knicks won six of seven games. Holzman said that record was misleading, however, since the Celtics were in several of those games right up to the end and could have won them.

"They played well for two games ... now it's up to us," Holzman said. "This might have given them a lift. But have given them a lift. But it didn't demoralize us. We'll just have to do the best we can."

Prospects good, Slepisky Says of Washtenaw CC '9'

His program is in only its first year, but Washtenaw Community College baseball Coach Larry Slepisky is figuring his squad, which features a lot of local talent, to hang in there for its share of wins against other junior college competition.

Already the Warriors have tucked a pair of victories under their belt, over Oakland-Orchard Ridge Tuesday morning and afternoon. Today, they'll try to put another win on the board when they play Concordia of Ann Arbor at 4 p.m. at Concordia.

Evaluating his team's main strength, Slepisky comments that "they put a lot of emphasis on being strong up the middle, and I think I can say we are. The pitching... I hope it's good. I think it's strong."

Slepisky has for first-line pitchers former St. John's athlete Chuck Heath, a freshman right-hander; Bill Wales, a righthanded sophomore who went to Roosevelt; and Gary Acree, who holds the Saline High strikeout record.

"I feel I have a good combination at shortstop and second," the coach continues. Jerry Mrozek of Dearborn Sacred Heart will hold down the shortstop job while Jack Starling of Saline will play second. "He really gets rid of the ball in a hurry," Slepisky comments of Starling.

The coach calls his centerfielder, John Bida of Plymouth, a potential pro prospect. "He's got real good speed — if he hits it on the ground, he's got a chance of beating it out — and a strong arm." A .318 hitter in the Livonia Recreation League last summer, Bida is a freshman.

Finally, there's the catching department to account for, and in Mike Schaefer of Detroit Catholic Central and Mike Baum of Taylor Center Slepisky figures he has plenty of ability.

Other area high school graduates figured to play a key role in Washtenaw's program this spring are third baseman Greg Berklich of St. John's and outfielder Ron Palmer, the former Ypsilanti High basketball and baseball performer.

But, aside from the team's strength up the middle, the coach believes there may be an even more important ingredient present: "Some of these kids really like baseball. The way they go at it in practice is really gratifying. It certainly makes it a lot easier for me as coach."

The Warriors, without facilities of their own, began practice indoors at Edmonson Junior High Feb. 24. Now they've moved outdoors to the school's physical education field — which doesn't include a ball diamond.

They'll be playing a 27-game schedule this spring — 29 if Slepisky is successful in filling a Saturday date he hopes to fill.

Tigers' GM answers Canham's charges

Campbell defends college signings

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Tiger General Manager Jim Campbell Wednesday defended the major leagues practice of signing college baseball players before they are graduated.

Campbell, speaking at a luncheon of sports broadcasters at the Detroit Press Club, said "tremendous gains" have been made in the last few years in establishing cooperation between the majors and college coaches.

"I remember six or seven years ago there were no holds barred (in getting college players)," he said.

The topic came up when someone asked him to comment on remarks made several weeks ago by Don Canham, University of Michigan athletic director.

Canham criticized the major leagues for doing "a hatchet job" on college baseball that is disrupting our entire program (at U-M)."

"The pros are so shortsighted they're ruining this source of supply," Canham said.

Campbell said the majors finance two leagues for college players and also recommend to various colleges that certain players be given scholarships.

"The majority of clubs are willing to cooperate and we've made great advances with college coaches," he said.

"There is a question that if a boy becomes 21 nobody has the right to stop him from signing a major league contract."

"It's a legal point," he added, "but really, now it's much more difficult to sign college players but we follow what rules have been set down."

Canham said baseball should follow the rules adopted by pro football and basketball by not allowing college baseball players to sign until they have been graduated.

Canham's remarks came in late February, a week after the expansion Seattle Pilots signed Dave Renkiewicz, a left handed pitcher who was expected to be the key to Michigan's Big Ten race this season. U-M's baseball record so far this year is 3-10.

Earlier, Big Ten batting champion, Elliott Maddox was signed by Detroit before he reached his junior year and Steve Evans, the Wolverine's top sophomore pitcher last season was signed by the St. Louis Cardinals.

3 officials Skip meeting

DETROIT (AP)—Three of the most interested parties were conspicuously absent Tuesday from a meeting called by two state senators to enlist support for a new downtown sports stadium in Detroit.

Absent were Mayor Jerome P. Cavanagh, who has been championing the downtown site for quite a while; John E. Fetzer, Detroit Tigers owner; and William Clay Ford, Detroit Lions owner.

The two sponsors of the meeting were Senate President Thomas Schweigert, R-

Petoskey, and Senator Sander Levin, D-Berkley.

"I'm disappointed he (Cavanagh) didn't show up," Schweigert said. "It seems to me he could have been here."

A spokesman for the mayor said Cavanagh did not learn of the meeting until Monday morning and by that time his schedule was already mapped out.

Fetzer and Ford did not send representatives but the city was represented by Councilmen Robert Tindal and Philip J. VanAntwerp.

Levin said the purpose of the meeting was to gain support of suburban communities in getting the stadium for downtown Detroit. He said he expected about 35 mayors to attend but only a handful showed up.

Three assistant coaches Have Duffy 'reshuffling'

EAST LANSING (AP)—The addition of three new coaches at Michigan State has Coach Duffy Daugherty reshuffling his assistants this spring, just as he does his players.

The new assistants are George Paterno, former head coach at the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy, and former Spartan footballers Joe Caruthers and Sherman Lewis. Paterno will be in charge of the running backs. Caruthers will be an assistant line coach and Lewis an assistant backfield coach.

Al Dorow, former offensive backfield coach, will supervise the passing game.

Hank Bulough will continue as defensive line coach and will have the added title of defensive coordinator.

Ed Rutherford will continue as head freshman coach and varsity assistant and will have a new title as administrative assistant.

George Perles, who has been assistant line coach, will become defensive backfield coach.

Gordie Serr will continue as offensive line coach. Dave Smith will coach the linebackers. They will be the only two aides who retain their same positions and responsibilities.

NL roundup:

Podres, Padres — Winning combo

By the Associated Press

Podres of the Padres! Roll dat alliteration around your tongue, youse Flatbush Faithful of Brooklyn. Tink back to dat wonderful year of 1955 when he pitched the Dodgers, Dem Bums, to de world championship over dose snooty Yankees.

Now dat ain't even his biggest t'rill no more. He wins one lousy game for some boig call San Diego, which sounds like a great name for a bullfighter, an' already he forgets us. Podres of the Padres? What's de world comin' to, Hoiman?

"I knew in spring training that I could pitch in the big leagues but I still had to prove it tonight — and I think I did," Johnny Podres said Wednesday night after coming back from a year of semi-pro baseball and hurling the expansion San Diego Padres to a 2-0 victory over Houston.

Elsewhere in the National League, Atlanta made it three in a row over San Francisco 4-1, Pittsburgh sent defending champion St. Louis to its second straight setback 6-1, Cincinnati edged Los Angeles 3-1 on Bobby Tolan's two-run homer, Billy Williams tied a major league record with four doubles in a nine-inning game as the Chicago Cubs walloped Philadelphia, 11-3 and the New York Mets drubbed Montreal 9-5.

Podres was released by Detroit following the 1967 season after 12 years with the Dodgers and two with the Tigers. He sat out 1968, pitching semi-pro ball around his home town of Witherbee, N.Y.,

The 36-year-old left-hander gave the Astros only a second-inning single by Curt Blefary and Joe Morgan's bloop single in the third in the seven innings he worked. He also knocked in a run with a sacrifice fly.

"Winning this game was probably the biggest thrill of my career," he said. "I couldn't get a job in baseball last year. I called the Angels, the Dodgers and a lot of clubs, but nobody wanted me. They knew my age and they thought my arm must have been broken when Detroit released me."

"I was so keyed up tonight I was wild. I pitched the first two innings the way I did in semipro ball last year. But Al Ferrara got on me after the second inning and told me to settle down."

"I think I could have gone nine innings, but Preston (Manager Preston Gomez) told me at the end of the sixth that all he wanted me to do was go one more inning."

Podres is scheduled to make his next start next Tuesday night—against the Dodgers in Los Angeles.

Milt Pappas retired 14 San Francisco batters in order after allowing a first-inning run but needed relief help

Two night games

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Green Bay will play two Saturday night pre-season football games at Lambeau Field, the Packers said Wednesday.

The National Football League Team will play the New York Giants on Aug. 9 and the Pittsburgh Steelers on Sept. 6.

from Cecil Upshaw as the Braves trimmed the Giants and swept their season-opening three-game series.

Hank Aaron doubled home the tying run in the bottom of the first and then scored on Orlando Cepeda's single. The Braves got two more in the sixth on Clete Boyer's homer, Sonny Jackson's double and a single by Bob Didier.

Bob Veale scattered six hits as Pittsburgh downed St. Louis. The Pirates scored twice in the fourth on Julian Javier's two-base error, a single by Roberto Clemente, Willie Stargell's double and Bob Robertson's single.

They added three more in the fifth on Fred Patek's bunt, another Javier error, Matty Alou's double and a single by Clemente. Jerry May homered in the ninth.

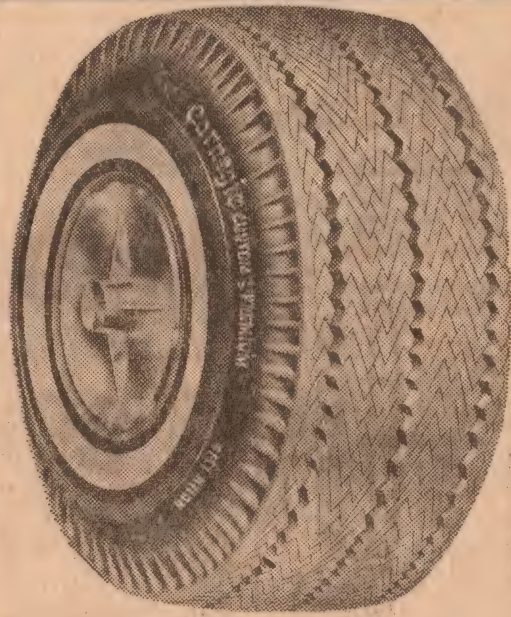

Tolan's two-run homer in the seventh against Don Sutton of Los Angeles snapped a tie and gave the Reds' victory to relief pitcher Wayne Granger, who was on base with a walk when Tolan connected.

Bill Hands spaced seven hits as the Cubs trampled the Phillies and Williams' four doubles matched a record shared by 29 other players. The Cubs broke a 2-2 tie with two unearned runs in the fourth inning and exploded for seven in the seventh.

The Mets sent Montreal to its first defeat with a four-run first inning and Tug McGraw's strong 6-2-3 innings of relief. Ken Boswell homered for the Mets and Rusty Staub hit one for the Expos.

Eastern sweeps twin bill

HARROGATE, Tenn. — Pete Casteel singled to center with the bases loaded in the first inning of action here yesterday, touching off the Eastern Michigan scoring in a high-scoring doubleheader sweep by the Hurons.

Victims of 12-1 and 10-3 defeats was the baseball team from Lincoln Memorial University.

Coach Ron Oestrike's Hurons belted a total of 25 hits during the afternoon, including eight for extra bases, as they raised their season record to 5-3 heading into the late stages of their southern trip.

Eastern is at East Tennessee State today, and tomorrow begins a three-game series with rugged Carson Newman, perhaps the toughest team on the Hurons' southern schedule.

Roger Coryell, a junior righthander, won the opener for Eastern yesterday. In his first start of the year, he threw a three-hit shutout for five innings. Bob Smoots finished up.

Tom Wojcicki started for the first time in the nightcap, and earned the win when the Hurons came up with eight runs during the four innings he worked.

Lincoln Memorial went into the doubleheader with a 4-0 record.

Lott new director For Lakeview

There'll be a face familiar to many area swim enthusiasts at poolside later this spring when the Lakeview Swim Club opens its season.

It'll be that of Chuck Lott, Eastern Michigan University diving coach and previously a swimming coach at Ann Arbor and Jackson High.

Lott, of 3245 Fernwood in Ann Arbor, will carry the title of pool director at Lakeview, and will be assisted by a staff of five. Dennis Betts, an Eastern Michigan senior and captain of the Hurons' NAIA champion natators, will be assistant pool director.

Another EMU swimmer, John Zang, will be head life guard. He'll be in charge of life guards Phyllis Modden, Christine Bell and Pete Linn.

Lott has had extensive experience in swimming-related areas since high school days when he was a prep All-American at Lansing Eastern. He was captain of the Western Michigan University team his senior year there — 1962.

He coached Jackson High between 1962 and 1967, and Ann Arbor in 1968. He was water front director at Lake Geneva, Wis., during summers between 1959 and 1963. Other summer experience was gained as pool director at Arbor Hills Country Club in Jackson and as Coach of the Jackson Swim Club.

This year, Lott assisted Eastern Michigan head Coach Mike Jones in molding the Hurons' second consecutive NAIA national championship. Three of the divers Lott directed won national recognition, including Keith Gill, who repeated as national champ on both the one and three-meter boards.

Rising hospital-doctor bills cause higher welfare costs

LANSING (AP)—Rising hospital and doctor bills are among major reasons why Michigan's welfare costs have been soaring and are expected to reach a federal-state total of $500 million in the fiscal year ending July 1.

The general increase in the cost of living, in-migration from the South and advertising also have been among factors.

New federal regulations, effective July 1, are expected to add to the state's burden.

Medicaid, which first became available to the needy in October of 1966 — not quite three years ago — is expected to require a federal-state outlay of $176.8 million in the current fiscal year and one of $207.3 million in the next.

The number seeking medicare, as well as increases in hospital and doctor fees, has been increasing.

Anyone qualified for any other category of relief is also qualified for medicare and so are the so-called "medically indigent," those whose incomes are judged insufficient to buy them needed medical treatment.

Doctors and hospitals participating in medicare are paid their "usual and customary" fees. Nursing homes get $14 a day per patient where a registered nurse serves patients around the clock; $12 if patients merely are cared for under supervision of a registered nurse.

Under contract with the State Social Service Department Blue Cross pays hospital bills and Blue Shield the doctor and drug bills, collecting in turn from the state. Nursing home care is handled similarly by Travelers Insurance Co.

Advertising gets into the rising-cost picture this way: The Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), a federal agency, conducted campaigns last year to seek out the needy and explain to them how to go about obtaining assistance in whatever category they might qualify.

Migration of the South's poor to the North is hard to measure, but experts agree it has been sizeable.

The average Michigan family on ADC received $186 a month last year, while in Mississippi a family of four got only $40.74 a month. With this information and rumors of good jobs to be had in the North, the poor have been flooding northward like lemmings to the sea.

Bernard Houston, director of the Michigan Department of Social Services says at least three new federal regulations going into effect by July 1 will cost the state additional money. Congress has shown no inclination to increase federal contributions.

States have been informed they must update their food, utility and heat allotments in aid to dependent children to more closely match 1969's cost of living index. Current allotments are based on 1961 standards, with a maximum of $25 per person—or 83 cents daily—for food.

The maximum federal contribution now is $90 monthly. The state's share for the average family is $96, plus any extras, such as for winter clothing.

Federal authorities also have advised the state that effective July 1 mothers of dependent children will be permitted to keep the first $30 per month of earnings, plus one-third of all above $30.

Now a Michigan ADC mother is allowed to earn $20 a month in excess of expenses (for such as transportation, lunch, uniforms and union dues) without losing any of her allotment. The allotment is reduced by whatever her earnings exceed $20.

Houston estimates this change alone will add $10 million to $15 million a year to the state's list.

Under another federal regulation, a recipient ordered off relief rolls automatically can forestall his or her removal by appealing to a circuit court—with their allotment continuing until the court rules.

Heretofore a recipient found ineligible could appeal, but he or she remained off the rolls during the time of adjudication.

Moving Seedlings Takes care

Moving seedlings from the pots in which they were growing indoors or from the row in the garden in which they were grown is a major operation — not for you but for the plants.

First make certain that the soil in the area in which you want to plant them is ready to receive them.

This means that the soil has been turned, any unbreakable clods discarded, the particles made fine enough so they will come in contact with the hair-like roots and some form of organic matter added.

This might be compost from your compost pile or a readily available product like peat moss. Work it into the top few inches of soil.

Scatter a commercial fertilizer over the soil surface and cultivate it lightly into the soil. This will furnish the nutrient needed for good early growth.

The night before you intend to transplant, do 2 things: water the area in which you expect to set the plants and water the plants. Preferably, water plants with a solution of one of the wilt-reducing, root-growth-inducing plant hormones.

Try to choose a cloudy day to transplant seedlings. If this is impossible, then move them in early evening or prepare to shade them for several days.

Take great care to disturb or break as few roots as possible. Dig a hole large enough to accommodate the roots and still leave soft earth around them.

Firm the soil around the roots as you hold the plant in one hand. Fill the hole nearly full, firm again. Water in the cup you've left at the top of the hole.

If you didn't use the hormone solution, use a starter solution now.

Earliest Blooms Desired

Every spring each gardener looks forward to seeing the first flowers. Usually they're from plants grown from bulbs. Then there may be a long break before the next blossoms open.

This time without flowers is unnecessary. Seeds of pansies and English daisies, planted in August, give a wealth of bloom by the time the last tulips fade.

This year be forehanded. Select now an area in light shade and mentally allot this to the extra-early flowers.

Keep the weeds down, the soil cultivated, to refine the texture, and add peat or other organic matter, mixing it with the top several inches of soil.

These things, done early in the gardening season, will insure you of a ready-made seedbed for August sowing of seeds to furnish those early flowers next year.

And that means you'll have lots of pansies and English daisies in your spring garden next year.

Australia and New Zealand are the leaders in lamb and mutton consumption, averaging 74 and 76 pounds per capita annually, while the United States consumes about four pounds per person and Germany is the lowest with only one pound per cap-

By Garden Club:

Spring cleanup discussed

Plans for a spring cleanup and planting flower gardens in the islands on River Blvd. were discussed by the Ypsilanti Garden Club at their April meeting Monday.

The City Beautification Committee suggested that various clubs and service organizations be responsible for particular areas of Ypsilanti. A decision on the Garden Club's participation in the spring cleanup will be made in May.

The Federation of Garden Clubs of Michigan has requested that the garden club write an up-to-date report on the garden at the Senior Citizen's Center, which won the Sears Award in 1964. The report with pictures will be included in a book of other garden projects which will be exhibited at the 38th annual meeting of the Federation on June 4 at Grand Rapids.

The Garden Club members also were told about an adult education course being offered at the University of Michigan. Spring wildflower's and woody plants is the title of the course. Lecture sessions will be held on Thursday evenings from 7-9 p.m., April 24-May 15. Field sessions will be on Saturdays from 9 a.m.-

12, April 26 to May 17 at the U-M Botanical Gardens.

The officers of the club for the ensuing year were also announced. They are as follows: Miss Doris Milliman, president; Mrs. Denny Gilmore, vice-president; Miss Frances Warren, treasurer; Mrs. Lyle B. Skalland, recording secretary; and Mrs. Harry Regtz, corresponding secretary.

Now that spring has arrived, it is time to start thinking about your lawn. Early care in the spring is the best way to assure yourself of a green lawn for the summer.

Low cut grass gives Quick lawn green-up

Did you ever wonder why some lawns green up faster than others in the spring? Have you noticed that grass areas that have been burned over always seem to be greener sooner than areas that have not been burned?

The reason for this, according to Don Juchartz, Director of the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service, is that "grass begins to grow and green up from the crown or base of the plant, and not from the top down. This means that the new growth has to literally push the old dead leaf blade ahead of it when it starts to grow."

This growing condition then sets the pattern for the homeowner who wants to have the first green lawn in his neighborhood. Recommendations for starting your lawn off to an early and good growing condition are very simple, according to Juchartz.

First, all of the winter accumulation of debris, such as sticks, stones, etc., should be raked off the lawn; at the same time the home gardener can do his grass a favor by raking extra hard and removing the "thatch" or layer of dead clippings and plant parts that have accumulated at the surface of the soil. Removal of thatch helps the grass to use water, air fertilizer more efficiently.

Second, the lawn should be mowed at a shorter height than normal. By clipping at this shorter height the dead tissue of the grass leaf will be removed and the new growth coming from the crown will be noticeable much sooner. It will be necessary to remove the clippings for best results.

Third, a high-nitrogen lawn fertilizer should be applied to the entire lawn. For best results a complete fertilizer, one containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium should be used. These should be applied according to directions on the bag and thoroughly watered in if possible. Watering is very important at this time of year because of the dry conditions we have had this past winter. Soak the soil to a depth of at least four (4) inches.

Fourth, after all of the above steps have been accomplished, raking, cutting short, fertilizing and watering, a pre-emergent crabgrass herbicide can be applied if desired. This should be applied before April 20th for best results.

This is not the time to apply herbicides to control broadleaved weeds, such as dandelions, clover, chickweed, plantains, etc. The time for this type of control is in early May after the plants have started into active growth and they are soft and succulent. At this time an application of a mixture of 2,4-D and Silvex, either liquid or granular, will be beneficial if you have a weed problem.

Juchartz emphasizes, however, that the grass should be cut short only once in the spring and then the regular mowing height of 1½ to 2 inches resumed. "Following the procedure outlined above," he says, "will give you a more vigorous, healthy lawn that will be one of the first to green-up and resist invasions of weeds and diseases."

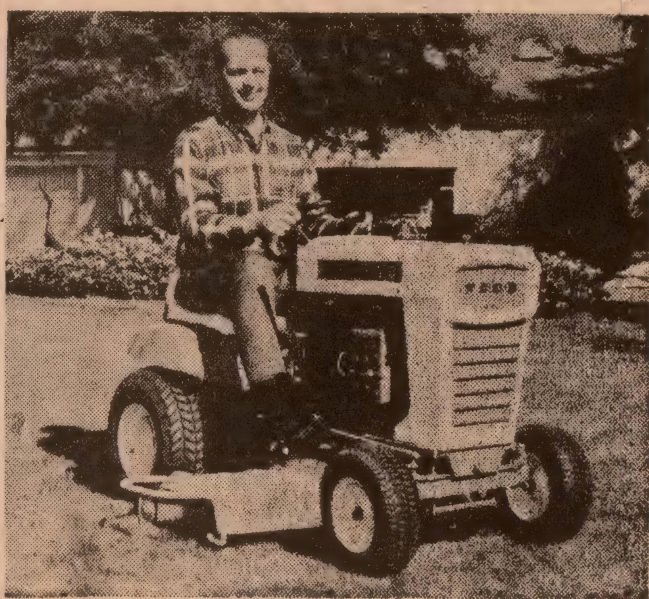

Juchartz also announced the beginning of the 1969 daily telephone service for answers to the "Garden Problem of the Day". Gardeners may call 728-8000, in the metropolitan Detroit area, any time of the day or night and hear a recorded two minute message describing the gardening problems that are occurring at the time with recommendations for their control.

Wounded separatist calls Spreen's version 'a lie'

DETROIT (AP)—One of four black separatists wounded when police broke into an inner city church after a white policeman was killed nearly two weeks ago says Police Commissioner Johannes Spreen's version of the incident is "a lie."

James T. Dawkins, a 27-year-old Ford Motor Co. foundryman who was shot through the right shoulder and again in the right elbow, is the last of the four to remain hospitalized.

He was never charged with an offense in connection with the incident and is not a police prisoner.

Dawkins said he and another man, hearing gunfire outside, stepped up near the pulpit of the church to try to calm the people down. "Some of them got down on the floor. The others sat like we told them," Dawkins said.

"But then we heard glass break—it must have been shots into the building—and the brother and I hit the floor."

"I saw three policemen come in, two with rifles and one with a handgun. One had a shield over his face.

Detroit Trio caught With heroin

DETROIT (AP) — Two men and a woman were arrested Wednesday carrying what police said was one of the largest narcotics hauls ever made in the Midwest.

Federal narcotics agents arrested Felix Wals, 27; James Riley, 35, and Sylvia Laster, 23, all of Detroit.

They were carrying nearly nine pounds of heroin and a smaller quantity of cocaine in brown paper shopping bags, authorities said. The three were surrounded when they left Miss Laster's apartment by a squad of a dozen Detroit police and federal agents.

"We expected quite a big haul, all right," said John Evans, regional director of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs. "But not this big."

Evans said the 8.8 pounds of heroin would bring about $25,000 in its present form, but would "be astronomical when cut down and sold at street prices."

Evans said he was not sure how the quantity of drugs—both severely addicting—were brought into the country. He said, however, that they might have been imported from Mexico.

He said none of the three arrested had a previous record and none was addicted. The three were charged with possession and importation of narcotics.

there—I was on my stomach—when I was shot for the first time, in the shoulder. Then, just seconds later, I was hit again."

Dawkins still has a bullet in his arm and says he has no sense of feeling in his right hand.

Spreen issued a statement Tuesday saying that police, fired on from the church, knocked before they broke their way in. The commissioner added that when they got inside the building was darkened and a man was firing from the pulpit.

Finally, Spreen said, the officers managed to turn on the lights and it was not until then, he said, that police discovered there were women and children inside.

"That's a lie," said Dawkins.

"The lights were not off. They were on all the time."

Dawkins said that after he was shot, officers told everybody to stand up. "They wanted everybody to stand up against the wall with their hands up. I told them I was hit."

Dawkins said he stood up against the wall with one hand in the air.

"Then one of the officers noticed I was wounded," he said, "and grabbed me by the collar and pulled me over and said, 'you lay down right there.'"

Dawkins said he asked the officer why he had been shot and got the reply:

"You didn't have no business here. I ought to shoot again."

Dawkins said that when he asked a policeman to take him to the hospital, he was told, "You ought to die."

Dawkins was arrested last year on a charge of machine gunning a Detroit Police car the morning after the assassination of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. But, after spending seven months in jail, he was acquitted by a jury that spent 90 minutes deliberating after two weeks of testimony.

JUDGE BRENNAN

Judge Brennan refuses To expand on remarks

LANSING (AP) — Chief Justice Thomas Brennan of the State Supreme Court refused Wednesday to elaborate on previous remarks that some interpreted as supporting actions of Recorder's Court Judge George Crockett.

Crockett, a Negro, came under fire for releasing persons taken into custody after the shooting death of a white Detroit policeman. Wayne County Prosecutor William Cahalan did not seek prosecution of some 100 persons brought into the police station after the shooting.

Brennan said earlier this week that if police have cause to arrest, a prosecutor has cause to prosecute.

Asked if his remarks were aimed at the Detroit incident, Brennan said:

"I am not talking about the Crockett case. I'm not sure there is a case."

"How can we interpret your speech?" newsmen asked.

"Quote it," the chief justice replied. "I meant to say every word—every blessed word."

DETROIT (AP) — When weather conditions are right, the city of Detroit plans to begin a two-month air bombardment against Dutch Elm disease. The city is turning to helicopters for its spraying operations this year, hoping to condense a normal summer-long campaign into two months.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

"I WISH YOU'D EXAMINE my husband," suggested a lady to a new doctor in town. "He blows smoke rings through his nose. It's very upsetting." "But madam," murmured the doctor, "many experienced pipe and cigarette smokers practice diligently so that they can blow smoke rings through their noses."

"You don't understand," said the lady coldly. "My husband doesn't smoke."

The closing of Washington's famous old hotel, The Willard, set historians scuttling to record famous events that took place in the long history of the famous hotel.

Don Maclean dug up the part it played in the Civil War's first battle of Bull Run. Washington gentry had not yet taken the threat of the Confederacy seriously. On the day the Union Army sallied forth to do battle with the upstart Rebels, fancy carriages loaded with gentlemen and ladies dressed to the nines set out from The Willard, bound for the Virginia hills to witness what they expected to be an easy Northern victory.

Hours later, they straggled back to the Willard bar, and spent the evening imbibing and trying to rationalize the North's decisive defeat. That's the last time the Civil War was mistaken for a spectator sport!

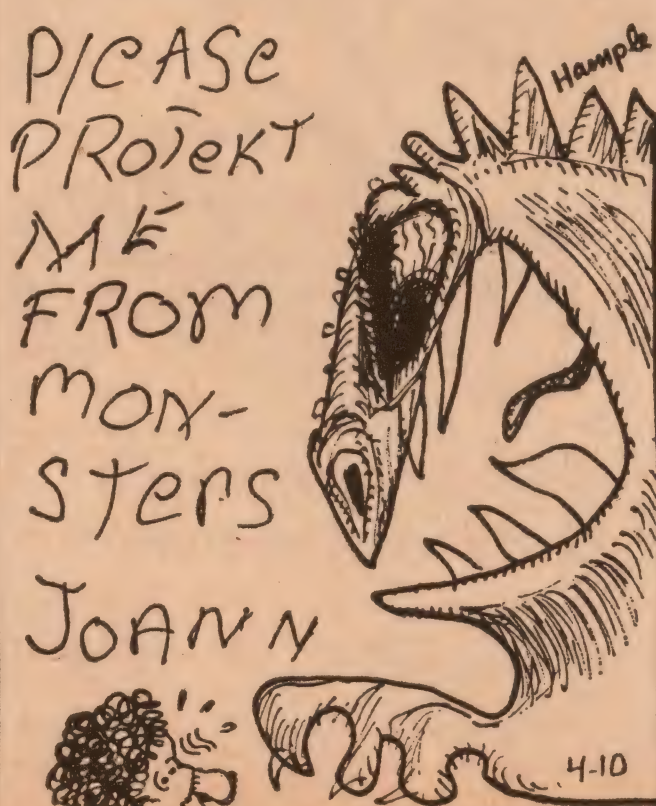

Exasperated mother to child at dinner table: "Eat it, Chester, dear. Pretend it's mud."

DEAR ABBY:

Married playboy, teen Make disastrous duo

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a mature 17-year-old girl, and I like a man who is 31. He has been married for eight years, but for six years he and his wife have had an understanding, and they do as they please with no questions asked. He is a nice person and he respects me.

I would like to talk to my mother about him, but I am sure she wouldn't understand. To me, age doesn't matter as long as we feel the same about each other. Whenever he is around, I get butterflies in my stomach. Can you advise me? Butterflies

DEAR BUTTERFLIES: What may feel like "butterflies" in your stomach could be bats in your belfry. I can't imagine bigger trouble for a 17-year-old girl than an involvement with a 31-year-old married man who has an "understanding" with his wife. He's not as "nice" as you think he is. Lose him.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think there is any harm in women wrestling with each other in the privacy of a home if they are related or good friends? My husband does.

My mother lives with us and we three get along just fine. The other night my husband was asleep on the sofa and my mother and I were sitting on her bed, just talking. We were kidding around and started a playful pillow fight. It finally developed into a wrestling match. We got to laughing and screaming, and the noise woke my husband.

He was mad at us and said two grown women should not be wrestling with each other. I honestly can't see anything wrong with it, can you? Darlene

DEAR DARLENE: Not as long as you hold the noise down.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's daughter by a former marriage is being married soon and she has asked her father to give her away. He accepted and seems honored and delighted. It's going to be one of those big formal church weddings. (Of course, I'm not going.)

I realize that as her father he has certain obligations, but if he is asked to pose in a picture with his ex-wife, I think he should refuse, don't you?

Their marriage ended five years ago, and both he and his ex have remarried, so why try to re-create something which no longer exists? Second Wife

DEAR SECOND WIFE: On the occasion of a child's wedding, I think divorced parents should do all they can to make that day as happy for their child as possible. If I were you, I certainly would not concern myself with whether or not my husband poses for a picture with his "ex."

DEAR ABBY: We have a dear friend who is in her early 50s. She's attractive and younger looking and has been a widow for a few years. Her children are grown and married.

It seems that her boss, a twice married and twice divorced man in his 30s, has sold her a bill of goods. He wants to marry her! And she is apparently buying it!

We, her friends, have tried to convince her that it would be a mistake to marry this man — that he is looking for a mother, not a wife. What do you think? Concerned

DEAR CONCERNED: I think the most useless thing in the world is unsolicited advice. Save yours.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, care of The Press and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, care of The Press for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for all Occasions."

DR. BROTHERS:

Food faddists feed Cash register best

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Dear Dr. Brothers: My neighbor is always telling me that I'm not giving my family the right foods. She is a great believer in "health foods" and will serve only that kind. I think she is foolish because the food she buys costs more than regular food and I certainly don't think her family is any healthier than mine.—O.H.

Dear Mrs. H.: Despite statements to the contrary by medical authorities, many Americans continue to place great faith in the health value of special kinds of foods commonly known as "health foods."

Although most authorities feel that perfectly adequate nutrition is obtained from a reasonably well balanced diet, some persons continue to insist that certain foods or types of food are lodestones of health and well-being while others are to be avoided as if they were poison.

Even persons who consider themselves to be practical and informed about nutritional matters maintain certain unwarranted beliefs about food. The taking of vitamins in excessive and needless quantities, the belief that red meat is essential to athletic prowess, and the belief that fish is a brain food are far from unusual.

While in most cases the only harm done by such food faddism is to the pocketbook, in some cases belief in the restorative and rejuvenative powers of certain foods may cause ailing individuals to delay seriously needed medical treatment. The elderly seem especially vulnerable to the claims of health food dispensers and for them, the added expense of such special foods may be a genuine financial hardship.

What makes some persons become so preoccupied and enthusiastic about certain foods and special diets is another question.

Our attitudes and emotional feelings about food are formed very early in life and shaped by our childhood experiences. For some individuals eating and food become major sources of gratification, while others are less concerned with when and what they eat.

Food can have different meanings for various individuals. Some foods take on meaning as security foods; when the individual is upset, he is likely to turn to these foods for solace. Often these foods are associated with infancy and childhood such as milk and ice cream or candy.

For some persons, food becomes equivalent to love and affection. When the person is lonely or frustrated, he is likely to reward himself with special food treats as a way of bolstering his sense of worth and well-being.

And in some cases, food may be believed to have almost magical significance. The individual becomes convinced that without certain foods his health and vitality will rapidly diminish. By eating only these foods he is able to satisfy himself with the illusion that he is protecting himself from illness and aging.

There is also an element of snobbery and status seeking in the use of bizarre foods. By eating a diet that differs radically from those of his friends, the individual obtains reassurances or his uniqueness and sophistication. Whatever your neighbor's reason for her dedication to "health foods" it is unlikely that you will be able to sway her with reason but don't let her undermine your own nutritional common sense.

Teen drinking is becoming a national problem. For her leaflet entitled, "How to Help Your Teens Abstain," send 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Joyce Brothers in care of The Press.

YOUR HEALTH:

Adolescents benefit From specialist's aid

By DR. LESTER COLEMAN

At the beginning of the year I wrote in a column that one of the great specialties in medicine is the art of being a family physician. I pointed out that I have never ceased to wonder how the general family physician can accumulate so much knowledge and dispense it with accuracy, warmth, and good judgment.

A few days ago the family doctor was elevated to the rank of specialist in a ruling by the American Medical Association.

Now I am about to make the humble suggestion that there is need for another specialty, namely, one that is devoted to the physical, the emotional and social problems of the adolescent. Too often children between the ages of 12 and 17 are in limbo, an indefinable age group with special needs. They seem to have graduated from the pediatric group and have not yet attained the full physical growth of the mature adult.

The adolescents are in conflict and in physical and emotional rebellion, and need greater understanding of their confusion, their restlessness, their fears, and their goals.

These youngsters have been bombarded by much bad, and often unfair, publicity that interferes with their growth into maturity. Their clothes, their hair, their attitudes are attacked without real appreciation of the difficulties they are encountering in the growing up process.

They are not the totally carefree, irresponsible youngsters who fit into their false portrait of nonchalance and defiance. One adolescent said to me with remarkable mature wisdom, "I don't seem to belong anywhere. I am too big to be a boy, and I am too afraid to be a man." This may give adults an insight into part of the conflict of the growing young adult. Many seem to have adult bodies, but are controlled by immature emotions and are still dependent on their parents and may be begging for understanding.

When their medical problems are discussed by a doctor with a keen interest in adolescence, there is an opportunity to offer social direction and teaching about the bursting sexuality of the young. Physicians who specialize in adolescents are so much better equipped to handle these delicate problems than parents who so often are embarrassed by the confrontation.

TEEN DATELINE:

Fifth wife not 'mom' type

By ELE and WALT DULANEY

Dear Ele and Walt: My father has been married five times. When he divorced my mother I stayed with her. Now I am 16 and living with him and his new wife.

She's nice but has filthy, dirty, sloppy habits. She's young and has a nice figure and she constantly wears those thin, skimpy low-cut bikinis. Honestly, it's embarrassing!

When I try to talk to her and she's half-naked, I get sick and weak inside and start to choke and cry. Then I really hate her. How can I change her? What do I say? — Chris

Dear Chris: It would be surprising if you didn't feel some mixed vibrations from a woman who is dad's new wife. The fact that she doesn't fit a "mom" image further complicates the matter.

Ask your dad if you can have some counseling with a minister, priest or family doctor. Tell him it's difficult to talk with him about these particular feelings yet you've got to get them out. Once you connect with a counselor, pour out your emotions A to Z. The counselor will help you sort out your feelings, establish alternatives and help you move to action. Speak to dad today. — Ele and Walt

Dear Walt: I am 15 and considered good-looking by my friends. I'm not shaped like a Playmate but I'm okay for my age. I know I'm not dumb, and I'm certainly not a tramp, but the boy I like ignores me whenever I meet him someplace accidentally.

If he's with me and people speak to him, he says "hi" but doesn't introduce me. He won't even stop and talk to them. I get this funny feeling like he's ashamed of me, when I tried to ask him, he just said, "Don't be stupid!" Is this average for boys? — Sandra can handle a one-to-one relationship with a girl. He can banter with ease with his buddies. But putting buddies and girl together unhinges him! "What will they think? Will they make some bad joke or say something to make her put me down? Will she act lovey-dovey so they razz me later? What if she finds one of the guys more attractive, than me?"

Dear Sandra: It's "average" for a boy who's unsure of himself socially. Such a lad

His distance, in short, is protective, designed to keep things as he likes them between you and him.

Give him time. Later on he'll develop more ease and find a way to converse simultaneously with both buddies and girl. — Walt

A few party games to break the ice are always handy tricks for a wise hostess to have up her sleeve. Ele Dulaney has a wide selection in her pamphlet, "Ele's Ice Breakers: 33 Mixer Games." For a copy send a dime and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Teenage Date-Line, in care of The Press.

Life & Leisure: A guide for dedicated fun-lovers

What's at the movies tonight

CHARLY: Sensitive story of a mentally-retarded man given a second chance by a miraculous brain operation, and eventually plunged back into darkness when the new advance proves temporary. An easy candidate for embarrassing bathos, the film is saved by dedicated low-key direction and Cliff Robertson's almost loving portrayal of the ill-fated hero. (G) — La Parisen, Michigan

CHILLERAMA 4: "Die Monster," "Comedy of Terror," "The Raven" and "The Terror" make up this quadruple bill which is guaranteed to turn any serious movie-goer into a raging madman long before the fatal stroke of four. — University Drive-in CAMELOT: The lavish film fantasia of the knights and ladies of this best loved of all storybook kingdoms. Spectacular scenes, sumptuous costumes and a sensationally sing-alongable score — what could be bad? — Wayside

BUONA SERA, MRS. CAMPBELL: Gina Lollobrigida stars as an Italian temptress who has conned three American bedpartners into support of a child each thinks he has fathered. Careful direction and an excellent cast headed by Phil Silvers, Peter Lawford and Telly Savalas keep it light and funny and mature audiences will find it a pleasant relief from the usual sexploited fare. — Willow and Algier's Drive-ins

FACES: The story of a marriage in the process of collapse, John Cassavetes' film focuses on a quartet of sad, frustrated people trying desperately to convince themselves that they are having a good time. Painfully and embarrassingly intimate, the film's great strength lies in the fact that the audience continues to watch what they would prefer not to, and comes away with a greater sense of identification than they might wish to feel. — Campus

THREE IN THE ATTIC: Light-hearted spoof on feminine tactics in the perpetual battle of the sexes. Yvette Mimieux stars as one of three sullied ladies who avenge themselves on their shared lover by imprisoning him in their dormitory and impressing him into stud service. Not for children or mothers about to send a daughter to college. — Willow & Algier's Drive-ins

A MAN FOR ALL SEASONS: Paul Scofield turns in an excellent performance as Sir Thomas More in this story of a man's refusal to bend with the exigencies of the moment. Technically and dramatically excellent throughout, the main problems in the film seem to arise from a certain credibility gap in the hero himself. Nevertheless, the movie ranks easily among the best of Hollywood's recent efforts. — Martha Washington

THE TRIP: Peter Fonda stars in a pioneer attempt to simulate the acid trip. The story line is thin, but the photography and special effects keep it exciting, if not overly compelling. — Algier's Drive-in

SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL SHERIFF: A Western to end all Westerns... and it probably will, as it methodically reduces all the standard genre clichés to utter hilarity. James Garner plays the "stranger," Walter Brennan, "the vicious outlaw" and Joan Hackett, "the sweet young thing" in a film which is really too witty and sophisticated to claim a 'G' rating. — State-Wayne State

WHERT ANGELS GO, TROUBLE FOLLOWS: Rosalind Russell plays the improbable role of chaperone to a class of anything but ladylike young women in this too frantic attempt to sum up the spirit of mischievous mirth. On a bill with "Clam-bake," one of Elvis' less noted entries, and "Hook, Line and Sinker," a new Jerry Lewis movie. — Wayne Drive-in 2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY: Spectacular cinema effects have made Stanley Kubrick's futuristic epic one of the most well-deserved hits of the season. The relative absence of dialogue and narrative only increases the visual magnificence of a film which challenges all the unique possibilities of the film media.

WHERE EAGLES DARE: Richard Burton and Clint Eastwood are the only big names in this high-powered war story, but the film is nevertheless headed for a spot not claimed since "The Great Escape." Basically the story of a group of experts assigned to rescue a general from the Nazis, it is so suspensefully complicated that one never knows what lies beyond the next twist. The genre is redeemed, and the real adventure-monger is vindicated. — Fox Village, Quo Vadis

HANG 'EM HIGH: Clint Eastwood stars as a former lawman who is unjustly accused of murder and saved in the nick of time from a lynch mob's justice. By the time he evens the score several bloodpaths later, one wishes they had got him the first time. — State-Wayne

THE LEGEND OF LYLAH CLARE: Would-be chiller about a young actress possessed by the spirit of the legendary star whose life she is portraying. Unfortunately, the film is so full of Hollywood clichés — from Lylah herself, who is a composite of every historic sex symbol, to her egotistical director husband — that it becomes more spoof than serious, more ticklish than tingling. — Ypsi-Ann Drive-in

JOANNA: A very modern movie about a very contemporary girl who's pretty and adventurous and sleeps with a lot of different men because she likes them. There are no moral judgments here, not even any philosophical comments; just a story about people which is charming and happy simply because it doesn't pretend to be anything else, and bold and exciting because real people are. — Fifth Forum

CANDY: How could a film with Richard Burton, Marion Brando, Charles Coburn and Walter Matthau be all bad? Somehow "Candy" manages to be. In an utterly tasteless and insensitive treatment of Terry Southern's masterful satire, the producers have created a film as boring as it is vulgar. The waste is unforgivable. — Ypsi-Ann Drive-in

Alice and all her fantasy friends will populate the stage at Ypsilanti High School tomorrow when the Ypsilanti Jaycee Auxiliary presents the Nicolo Marionette version of "Alice in Wonderland."

Our best to you...

PIANIST ANDRE WATTS will make his first appearance with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra in their concert this evening at Ford Auditorium. He will perform the Rachmaninoff Piano Concerto No. 3 in D minor, while Sixten Ehrling will direct the orchestra in the Berlioz, "Symphonie fantastique." Watts, a 22-year-old American artist, is regarded as something of a phenomenon on the musical scene. He became a celebrity overnight after appearing six years ago in a televised concert by the New York Philharmonic, and his reputation has continued to soar. His appearance this evening is anticipated to be one of the most exciting events of the season. — Ford Auditorium, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. concert; tickets from $2.50 to $6.25.

MAY WE TAKE THIS METHOD of thanking our neighbors and friends for their kind expressions of sympathy in our bereavement.

JAMES HIBBITT and family

One year ago today, God took her home, it was his will but in our hearts we love her still; her memory is as dear to day as in the hour she passed away. We often sit and think of her when we are all alone; her memory is the only friend that grief can call its own. DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E A W L L O

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
